Ghristian Gourler

A Reformed Weekly, formerly known as Calvinist Contact

JANUARY 29, 1993/48th year of publication/No. 2339

Thinkbit:

it's easier to get the people out of Egypt than to get Egypt out of the people.

From: a reader who attributes it to James Cone.

Protestant college established in former USSR

Bill Fledderus

KLAIPEDA, Lithuania — A degree-granting Christian college was recently established in the Lithuanian city of Klaipeda on the Baltic Sea. The academic institution is thought to be the first of its kind in the former Soviet Union

"The program for this semester is going very well." says Art DeFehr of Winnipeg. Man., one of the Canadians who beloed found Lithuania Christian College (LCC).

"We have an excellent agreement going with Klaipeda University in which they let us use space in their facilities." says DeFehr. The agreement with the 4,000-student univergree in two majors: English studies and Christian studies. During this academic year the college boasts 29 first-year students and a staff of 10 instructors. Courses are taught entirely in English, without the benefit of any in-class translators.

Christian instruction, atmosphere

Students take one course related to the Bible or Christianity each semester in addition to four other courses.

"Most people there have virtually no religious upbringing or knowledge," says DeFehr. By their very presence Chris-

Photo courtesy Dennis Neumann Lathuanian Christian College has been established in the Baltic port of Klaipeda

sity gives LCC five floors of space for classrooms, offices and faculty residences in one of the university dormitories as well as a library area. in exchange for the space, LCC allows students and leachers from the university to study under its instructors.

LCC is initially offering a four-year Bachelor of Arts de-tian instructors are introducing the population to Christ, he Even computer training and courses in introductory English can be a way of bringing new people into contact with Christianity, he asserts.

The college's chapel services and Wednesday evening see LITHUANIAN -- p. 2

Conflicting expectations surround new U.S. president

Bert Witvoet & Marian Van Til

ST CATHARINES, Ont -William Jefferson Clinton was sworn in on January 20 as the 42nd president of the United States at a Washington inaugural ceremony which several American public television analysts says is "the greatest American secular rite." As Clinton assumes the role of leader of the world's most powerful nation, politicians and pundits have been busy trying to predict what kind of president he will be.

The media are filled with reports and columns stating people's expectations and experts' speculations.

Kitchen noise

"To judge a president by a transition is like judging dinner by the noise out in the kitchen; the clatter is fascinating, but it doesn't guarantee what's about to appear on the table," says an article in Newsweek. Yet the same article presents a poll that indicates that 68 percent of Americans liked the sound that came from the kitchen: they approve of the way Bill Clinton has handled his presidential transition.

That's only three percent down from a previous poll showing how many people approved of Clinton as future president. And according to a Dalton Camp column in the Toronto Star, "The new president's approval rating ... is about the same percentage as those who think that tomorrow will be better."

Another Toronto Star columnist, Richard Gwyn, points out that no one since John F. Kennedy has entered office with greater popularity than the 42nd president of the United States. At the same time, in Gwyn's opinion, "less is expected of him than of any president in a long time."

Contradiction?

Gwyn attributes this apparent contradiction to what he calls "the primal American quality of optimism, or the belief in belief itself." seasoned with Americans' wary realization that they "are going to have to solve their problems by prolonged, painstaking, systematic solutions rather than by some 'new' this or that."

This belief in belief itself came out strongly in Clinton's inaugural speech when he said,

"There is nothing wrong with America that cannot be cured by what is right with America." At the same time he called on young Americans "to act on your idealism by helping troubled children, keeping company with those in need, reconnecting our troubled communities."

Pleasing some

Some pundits are reading the manner in which Clinton and his team are carefully and painstakingly making cabinet appointments as a sign of someone who is not looking for quick solutions and will do his homework. Others see it as a sign of awkwardness and indecision.

Clinton's first appointments included fiscal conservatives like Lloyd Bentsen (secretary of the treasury) and laissezfaire proponents like Zoe Baird (attorney general), although the latter was forced to withdraw. These moves are bound to please business and other conservative Americans.

But those who favour aggressive military policies have their doubts about Clinton.

see CLINTON - p. 14

In this Issue:

Columnist Bick responds to CPJ chargesp.5 Six poems by womenp.10 A canvas filled with joy and pain.....p.11

News/Society

Lithuanian college seeks good relations

.. continued from p. 1 Bible hour (both voluntary) are another way of witnessing. DeFehr adds.

LCC is legally owned by a group of evangelical churches in Lithuania — the Lithuanian Christian Charity Fund — but in fact, much of the support and money have come from members of the Mennonite Central Committee, the DeFehr Foundation, Providence College and other institutions related to Mennonite communities, mainly in Manitoba and British Columbia.

Good relations with government

LCC has applied for a charter to confer its own degrees. Should that application be delayed. Klaipeda University has promised to confer its degree on the graduates.

Education officials in the Lithuanian government are starting from scratch, says Al Hiebert, academic dean of Providence College in Otterborne, Man., who has helped in negotiations between LCC and the Lithuanian government. Hickert says the officials he met had never heard of concepts such as a charter, a board of governors or a constitution.

Hiebert tried to explain to them how things are done in North America, but the extent to which officials choose to follow the North American system or design their own remains to be seen, he says.

Continuing good relations with the neighbouring university and with the Lithuanian government lead LCC representatives to feel optimistic about the charter application.

"The Lithuanian government considers our college to be a kind of experiment with Western education," says De-Fehr. "They are very interested to see what kind of issues and problems arise as we work together with their university."

The 29 regular students are being offered free books and tuition this year. An additional 100 students are currently taking evening courses in English-as-a-second-language. Students range from university professors, city officials, secondary school teachers to recent high school graduates. Many of them see the language courses as preparation for regular studies next fall.

LCC also conducts summer courses in English, which last year drew 290 students.

In the near future, it hopes to introduce business management training into its program of study because there is a great demand for that kind of instruction.

The city of Klaipeda, which boasts a population of 207,000, was formerly known as Memel. It is the largest seaport in Lithuania and expects considerable growth as trade with Western countries increases.

Franchising religion

Almost a year ago. C. Peter Wagner was in Calgary. He's a leading guru of the church growth movement and his appearance here was apparently based on that reputation. While in this city he reportedly made several surprising pronouncements. According to Wagner, Calgary is one of four North American cities that will undergo a spiritual renewal during this decade. The renewal of Calgary will be characterized by a decrease in violent crime, poverty, pornography, alcoholism and drug abuse. Furthermore, physical healing, peace and prosperity will all increase.

Wagner's glib comment is typical of statements made by those in the church growth movement. Such statements form part of a deliberate strategy to appeal to sympathetic audiences for community and financial support. The basic strategy proposed by many church growth promoters does not vary significantly from that of sales organizations such as Amway. In fact, after attending one of Amway's sales pitches recently, I was hard pressed to find any real difference, apart from the product to be promoted. Come to think of it, the central theme of the message was not very different either: sell enough Amway products and you'll be well, do well and live well!

Church-growth promoters are quick to claim success for this approach to missions. and even quicker to spend money without regard for effectiveness, efficiency or efficacy. After personal conversations with some who subscribe to this approach, and having read several articles and nearly a dozen books and how-to-do-it manuals. I find it increasingly difficult to reconcile the crass capitalist "sales pitch" with the message of the Gospel.

The Christian Reformed denomination is one of those that "bought into" the church growth ideology some years ago. Its track record after four years and roughly $35 million shows that the church growth mind-set is mostly hype, full of sound and fury. The "400,000 by 2,000" plan. now conveniently renamed "Gathering" (by the way, renaming is a good strategy when failure is obvious and accountability is to be avoided) has been a colossal failure when measured by its own standard, and therefore quite possibly a dramatic waste of valuable resources.

Perhaps the thing that bothers me the most about church-growth promoters is the patronizing superficiality with which they proclaim the Gospel. Wagner's glib comments about Calgary and Robert Schuller's inability to distinguish the Gospel message from an "American way" theology have little to do with freeing and restoring those who are prisoners of false idols.

In the last decade of this century, the Gospel of Jesus Christ needs to be broadcast and understood more fully than possibly at any other time in human history. The church growth methodology and its fanciful accoutrements are not the way to do it, as long as it remains captive to the spirit and ideology of "progress."

Jake Kaiken is a registered social worker who lives and works in Calgary.

Think Spring! AMSTERDAM from $459 Call us for emergencies

VALENTINE TRAVEL

513-0400 or 324-3330 Toll free 1-800-268-6144 (Ont.) London (519) 472-2700 St. Cath. (416) 935-9103 Henny Vuyk: (416) 934-0666 OFFICE HRS.: MON.-FRI. 0830-0530

Cow's milk linked to diabetes

TORONTO (News Canada) - A new study suggests that feeding cow's milk to infants under nine months could be a factor in the development of insulin-dependent Type I diabetes. The discovery is a major step towards diabetes prevention, say doctors at Toronto's Hospital for Sick Children, However they are quick to add that parents should not see this announcement as a cause for alarm, because further study will be required for proof.

The new study examined children with diabetes and found that one of the proteins in cow's milk caused their immune systems to react. (This reaction does not occur in most people.)

The study speculates that in babies who develop Type I diabetes, cow's milk may activate the immune system so that it destroys both the milk protein and the body's insulinproducing beta cells, which normally contain an almost identical protein.

If this theory were true, breast-feeding should reduce the risk of Type I diabetes. Further studies which attempt to prove this conclusion are now under way.

Comment

Pressreview

Carl D. Tuyl

Pressreview

ooking like the cat that got Linto the ice cream, our favourite Newfoundlander, John Crosbie, announced that the Canadian government will become a partner in the Hibermia project to the tune of $340 million. According to various sources, Hibernia might either produce oil at highly competitive prices or it might be so expensive that even the Sultan of Brunei won't be able to afford it. Government participation makes me think that the latter has more probability than the torner.

The Kingston Whig-Standard writes that some people use under-the-table deals to avoid paying the GST. You don't say!

The Fraser Institute in Vancouver estimates the underground economy to be worth about $90 billion annually. No wonder the GST revenues are down 4.4 percent, to $9.2 billion for the first eight months of the fiscal year.

* * *

The press at home is already speculating about possible replacements for Quebec's premier. Mr. Bourassa has, however, not yet resigned. We certainly wish him well.

* * *

onsieur is back at 24 Sussex Drive after a well-carned vacation. On the way home he stopped at Camp David to have a last chat with George Bush.

There is no definitive word yet on the Prime Minister's plans. My sources (a Toronto cab driver; a porter at a TO hotel; a customs officer at the Blue Water Bridge in Sarnia; and a reputable undertaker) indicate that he will quit and that there will be an election in September.

Any time now Bill C-91. which will make a lot of medication a lot more expensive, will pass into law. A former cabinet minister, Judy Erola, lobbied for the passage of the bill on behalf of the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers' Association. It helps a lot if you know your way around Parliament Hill, and Judy surely does. Bill C-91 has the smell of money.

* * * Prince Edward Island will be, in all likelihood, the first province to have a female premier. The premier's successor for the party leadership, as well as the opposition's leader. is a woman. I, for one, will miss Premier Ghiz. He leaves an important legacy, though: a wonderful recipe for Caesar salad which he presented on CBC's "Morningside program. It's perhaps not much of a gift to leave behind, but then again there are many politicians who have done worse. His successor will probably see P.E.I. linked to the mainland. Maybe that will make the potatoes cheaper.

* * *

The Big Mac will hit Saudi Arabia this month, Its march over the planet cannot be stopped; it is as relentless as the sun chasing the horizon. The Chicago Tribune had more news from Saudi Arabia: a Filipino pastor who was reportedly headed for the gallows on Christmas Day was not hanged but deported instead. His crime was trying to evangelize with the Christian Gospel. The director of the National Council of Islamic Affairs intervened for the pastor with Prince Salman Abdul Aziz, saying that hanging a Christian pastor was not the politically correct thing to do.

* * *

his week I remembered a I line of a poem: "I hear America singing." I don't remember the poem or the poet. [Read the video review on Page 7 for a hint, Carl! Ed.] Just that one line — because you could hear America singing all over the continent. If one ever wanted to see the difference between Canadians and our friendly neighbours to the south, this was the week.

A new Canadian prime minister puts on his Sunday suit. goes to Government House. gets swom in and goes to work. Stiff upper lip stuff! Not so on the other side of the border. They throw a week-long frenzy of pomp, pageantry and patriotism with all available Hollywood guys and dolls in overdrive.

There isn't much use expecting a whole lot of things in the first 100 days of the President's administration. President Clinton has his work cut out for him: the U.N. coalition is falling apart; Saddam Hussein is still dripping wounded ego in big blobs; and the U.S. economy needs intensive care.

hings in Europe's backyard aren't improving much, either. The Pope is going to give it a try, but I doubt that he will be able to bring this imbecilic hell-soaked fratricide to a peaceful conclusion. I could not decide on a freak of the week -- too many candidates all over the world.

For interested readers I picked up a copy of a magazine called The Learning Annex. It advertises all sorts of educational opportunities, one of which I will pass on to you. The course is entitled "How to Get Free. Easy Money," and it promises to give students a "guide to government giveaways." Don't say I didn't tell you.

Carl Tuyl is a member of the Ontario Provincial Interfaith Committee on Chaplainey and also the chaplainey coordinator for the Christian Reformed

Christian Courier

(ISSN 1192-3415) Published weekly on Fridays except for July 2, 16, 30, Aug. 6 and Dec. 24 by Calvinist Contact Publishing Limited. Member of Canadian Church Press and Evangelical Press Association.

Canada mail: Publications Mail Registration No. 0451. Postage paid at St. Catharines, Ont. Postmaster: send address changes to Christian Courier, 4-261 Martindale Rd., St. Catharines, Ont. L2W 1A1.

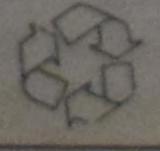

U.S. mail: Christian Courier (USPS 518-090). Second-class postage paid at Lewiston, NY. Postmaster: send address changes to Christian Courier, Box 110, Subscriptions:	Canada	U.S.A.

	(GST incl.)	(GST free)
	$21.25	$18.00 U.S.
one year	$ 37.50	$32.00 U.S.
two years	$ 70.00	$60.00 U.S.
three years	$105.00	$90.00 U.S.
overseas one year	$125.00 airmail

$ 70.00 surface mail Advertising deadlines: display advertising: Wednesday, 8:30 a.m.; classified advertising. Thursday, 8:30 a.m. All deadlines are for the following week's issue. See classified pages for more detail.

> 4-261 Martindale Rd. St. Catharines, Ont. L2W 1A1 Tel.: 416-682-8311 or fax: 416-682-8313 PRINTED IN CANADA

This tabloid contains recycled paper.

AMSTERDAM CHARTERS VIO

Child Adult Senior FROM TORONTO Dates 499 499 519 APR 30 499 519 539 MAY 07, 14 499 MAY 18, 21, 25, 28/ JUN 01, 04, 08, 11, 15 559 579 499 659 609 JUN 18, 22, 25, 29 549 659 699 JUL 02, 06, 09, 13 549 719 JUL 16, 20, 23, 27, 30 / AUG 03, 06, 10, 13 759 549 AUG 17, 20, 24, 27, 31 699 659 599 659 499 SEP 03, 07, 10, 14 599 SEP 17, 21, 24, 28 / OCT 01, 05, 08, 12, 15, 22 549 499 Child Dates Senior FROM VANCOUVER Adult 828 848 JUN 29 848 828 JUL 06, 13, 20, 27 / AUG 03, 10, 17, 24, 31 848 898 798 798 SEP 07, 14, 21, 28 848

Har Class from Toronto $320 (return), from Vancouver $600 (return). Airport Taxes $44. Senior age 60+, child age 2-11

Barrie 722-1025

WINTER SEAT SALE Jan. 18-Mar. 31 CALL US. WE WILL NOT BE UNDERSOLD!

Canada wide Quality, Reliable and Proven Service

VERSTRAETE TRAVEL SERVICE.

14845 YONGE STREET, STE. 210, AURORA, ON L4G 6H8 TORONTO AREA (416) 969-8100/Cross Canada TOLL Free 1-800-565-9267 (We'll book your Amsterdam trip, no matter where you live) Baldwin Verstraete, Owner - 22 Years of Amsterdam Leadership Caron Goodreau

Anna Winter

Newmarket 836-9226

Editorial

Looking at Bill Clinton without b.i.b.i.

Richard Gwyn, Canadian political columnist, made the observation before the inauguration of Bill Clinton that Americans view their president-elect with hope because of the primal American quality of optimism, something he describes as "belief in belief itself." The comment intrigued me because I recognize this kind of belief as it manifests itself in religious settings too. I do my best to avoid it in real life, but I sometimes observe it when the dial strays to a sweating televangelist in action.

Perhaps it is not so much the evangelical faith itself that sometimes emerges as belief in belief itself, but it is that innate American impulse of positive thinking which surfaces in religious as well as political settings. Not that all Americans are carriers of the disease. I know many who are not. But it seems to be part of the American national psyche.

I asked myself what characterizes belief in belief itself? How can anyone tell it from just plain, ordinary belief

The world of b.i.b.i is complex

The first thing I would mention about b.i.b.i. is the tendency to follow a person's desires rather than a person's knowledge. If you want a certain thing or outcome, then you make yourself believe that it will happen.

You can observe b.i.b.i. at work in game shows.
Which teams are chosen to participate in game shows? Teams that are enthusiastic and that cheer each other on. Members must be optimistic

Christian Courier

formerly known as Calvinist Contact Founded in 1945

An independent weekly that seeks the truth, care and rule of Jesus Christ as it

- reports on significant happenings in the Christian community and the world,
- expresses opinions that are infused by Scripture and Spirit and rooted in a Reformed perspective, provides opportunities for contact and discussion for the Christian community.

Associate Editor: Marian Van Til; Assistant Editor:
Robert Vander Vennen; Staff Journalist: William Fledderus; Circulation Manager: Grace Bowman;
Accounting: Corrie de Jong; Advertising: Suzanna Brasz:
Layout & Design: Ingrid Torn (Cecilia van Wylick on maternity leave)

Proofreading: Pamela Martin

CORRESPONDENTS:

Kathy Vance, Mt. Lehman, B.C.; Thea Ewald, Smithers, B.C.;

Thea Fermema, Edmonton, Alta.;

Hermina Dykxhoorn, Calgary, Alta.; Angela Terpstra.

Regina, Sask.; Jeanet Sybenga, Winnipeg, Man.;

Gertrude van Leeuwen, Winnipeg, Man.; Jacoba Bos, Strathroy, Ont.; Mary Lee Selder, Strathroy, Ont.; Nandy Heide, St.

Catharines, Ont.; Reinder Klein, Creemore, Out.; Walter Neutel,

Ottawa, Ont.; Barend and Petra Biesheuvel, Pierrefonds, Que.;

Anne Hutten, Kentville, N.S.; Alison de Groot, Washington, D.C.

EDITORIAL ADVISORY BOARD:

Robert Bernhardt, Nandy Heule, Anne Hutten,
Sheena Jamieson, Nicholas B. Knoppers, Jacob Kuntz, Pamela Martin, Hendrik Roems, Lammert Slofstra, William Van Huizen, Neilie Westerhoff.

The publication of comments, opinions or advertising does not imply agreement or endorsement by either Christian Courier or Calvinist Contact Publishing Limited.

Published by Calvinist Contact Publishing Limited
4-261 Martindale Rd., St. Catharines, Ont.
L2W IA1, Canada
Tel: (416) 682-8311 Fax: (416) 682-8313

extroverts to qualify. They have to be able to say to a team member who answered "tomatoes" to the question: "What, according to a poll, is the dessert preferred by most Americans?: "Good choice, good choice," even though they know in their heart of hearts that the poor sucker is way out in left field and should have stayed home and washed the dishes. That's a pure strain of belief in belief itself.

Ignore the faults

Another characteristic of b.i.b.i. is the tendency to select all the positive omens and to ignore or minimize the negative ones. If you seek sustenance at the b.i.b.i. table, you don't want to shatter your beautiful world of dreams with the knowledge that your object of faith is human, makes mistakes, is willing to walk over other people's bodies to obtain what he really wants or is basically an immoral person.

We saw how this functioned in those people who surrounded Jim and Tammy Bakker, for example. These were sincere Christians who thought they were serving the Lord when they overlooked the gross sins of the Bakkers. They completely forgot Jesus' warning that you can tell false prophets by their fruits. The phenomenon of b.i.b.i. made them stupid. They became like cameras whose moral f-stops produced an extremely shallow depth of focus.

Watch the symbols

People afflicted with b.i.b.i. think the world of symbolism. The Clinton crews who planned the inauguration ceremonies for their new president were extremely aware of the importance of symbolism. Yet they were said to have made a mistake when they ordered a military fly-over for Clinton at a time when U.S. warplanes were attacking military targets in Iraq. It was the wrong symbol for the time it occurred. When you want to foster b.i.b.i., you don't want to make too many of those kinds of mistakes.

B.i.b.i. demands that you become preoccupied with the world of appearances.

Put your money on p.o.b.!

What, then, characterizes plain, ordinary belief, which we shall call p.o.b.?

One of the first things that marks it is the willingness to entertain doubts. If the thing you believe in is really worthwhile, you can safely ask yourself questions about it. Is it really what it claims to be? What about seeming contradictions? Why did so-and-so do this when the situation seemed to demand something else?

We can even ask such questions of Jesus. In fact, Jesus welcomes scrutiny because his works testify to who he is. Christians who are afraid to entertain doubts about their faith can never know the joy of discovering how true the Gospel really is.

If this is so in the realm of religion, should it not be true of politics, too?

The best service Americans can render a new president is to be honest with him and themselves. People who apply b.i.b.i. to Bill Clinton may say that he is comfortable around African and Native Americans, but they may fail to ask themselves whether he will pursue justice for the disenfranchised when it means upsetting the privileged or risking his own neck. P.o.b. will set them straight on that.

The next thing about p.o.b. is that you don't have to worry unduly about appearances. Sometimes we are afraid to welcome strangers into our homes because the house is not tidied up or because we can't produce a super meal. We hesitate to bring strangers to church because we think they may not like our accent or the fact that we have disagreements on certain issues.

An undue concern with how we appear to others prevents us from reaching out and touching a person's true needs. P.o.b. delivers us from such extraneous concerns.

Learn to be patient

Finally, p.o.b. places the burden of making things come true on the object of belief, which for Christians is always God. When we truly want something to happen, are we willing to wait for it to happen? I'm not suggesting a passive waiting, but a waiting as the Scriptures talk about it, when it counsels us to 'wait upon the Lord.' Waiting here means working diligently, but expecting the desired outcome to be determined by him.

As Canadians, let's join Americans in their renewed hope as they welcome their new president. But let's join them only in the spirit of plain, ordinary belief. No one is truly served by belief in belief itself.

BW

Letters

Columnist revisits 'Robin Hood'

In the Nov. 13, 1992, issue of this paper I related the viewpoint of a prominent and influential economist regarding taxes and public money. Essentially, Dr. Arthur Laffer suggested that our governments are like modernday Robin Hoods, in that they try to distribute wealth. He went on to illustrate, however, that these actions may eventually diminish wealth.

In the Jan. 1, 1993, edition of this paper was a response to my column by Citizens for Public Justice. I found the response by members of the CPJ to the Robin Hood article most interesting, but their interpretations and conclusions cause me to clarify my viewpoints.

CPJ has suggested that I have "a distorted view of taxation" because I related a viewpoint. Relating a viewpoint of an influential economist through his innovative adaption of a folk tale, and believing it, verbatim, are two very difterent things. I find it interesting that CPJ would conclude certain beliefs on my part which were not stated by me.

There were two key sentences I used

In the article. In reference to Robin Hood's wealth re-distribution, I said, "For those who think of income tax as an expropriation of private wealth by the public sector, the analogy is a good one." This sentence does not in any way suggest that I believe that all taxes are bad, even though there are many people who do think so.

Some, not all, taxes of dubious value

Prior to earning my business degree, my academic background and work experience was in urban planning and public policy. I am as aware as anyone else that much of our economy's productivity is based on public expenditures such as roads, ports, education, etc. Having worked in the public sector I can also state that while there is much good produced, not all government work is of value.

I strongly believe that much of the taxes we pay are for programs of dubious value or downright bad policy. Furthermore, even in worthwhile areas of government spending there is an incredible amount of waste. "Expropriation" is a kind characterization of taxes paying for bad policy and waste.

I also believe some of our government programs and expenditures are designed for the benefit of indulgent, self-serving politicians and bureaucrats, and not for the public benefit. I would characterize any taxes used for these purposes as legalized theft.

The latest estimates are that 53 percent of personal income goes to taxes at one level or another. In other words, we work to mid-July to pay the government before earning income for ourselves. To be perfectly clear, I think this level of taxes is too high. Believing taxes are too high is a far cry from the beliefs CPJ ascribed to me. They suggest I believe all taxation is wrong.

Treating the symptoms

"While Robin Hood's forced transfer of wealth may appear to be socially responsible ... it is actually a bad method because it treats the symptoms but not the problem." In the Robin Hood story, Laffer concludes that the businesspeople's attempts to avoid Sherwood Forest increased the cost of the goods the poor had to buy.

An example: CPJ itself has been very critical of many of our federal government's programs, notably related to our Native peoples. Many other critics state flatly that the largest problem our Native groups face is the government itself. I suggest that the government was tes valuable taxes dealing with symptoms instead of the root cause of the problems of our Native peoples. In doing so, the government exacerbated the problems.

The root cause of poverty in Nottingham was not that there were rich people. It was because there was unequal opportunity and an inability by the poor to rectify their being exploited. In my opinion, the real solution is a justice system that does not favour the rich, and an education system that will develop skills needed for economic advancement by all participants in an economy: and a sense for justice. This implies a capitalist system as envisioned by Adam Smith in which there is equal opportunity and information for all. I think involvement by the public sector (which means taxes) is required for both of these conditions to exist.

Right now, my impression is that the government feels it has a right to any taxes it in its wisdom deems necessary. In my opinion, if governments change their viewpoint so that they see taxes as a necessary expropriation of wealth that has to be justified by the benefits to society, we would be better off. We would see lower taxes, a more effective public sector, and more of the benefits we want the government to provide to those who need it.

Clarence Bick, Ancaster, Ont.

Baker-Collins/Kits response not a mature witness

I must say that the Baker-Colhus/ Kits response (C.C. Jan. 1) to Clarence Bick's earlier column is somewhat misleading.

Bicks is reported to have said that "higher taxes will reduce work incentives." The counter argument by Baker-Collins/Kits is not convincing, however. They cite studies of the '60s and '70s which discarded "the notion that lower tax rates encourage harder work" and that "even moderately higher income tax rates have little effect on work effort." These are rather deceptive statements because the welfare state did not come into its own until the late '60s and early '70s.

Studies in the early '90s (it is now

Institute have concluded that U.S. workers are 11 percent more productive than German workers and 23 percent more productive than Japanese workers. Moreover, studies have concluded that the U.S. worker is on the whole still number one in worker output, compared with France, Germany, Japan and Britain. Is there a correlation between these figures and the fact that, as Baker-Collins and Kits admit, "the U.S. has the lowest taxation rate among Western industrialized nations"?

Furthermore, the counter argument to Clarence Bick's claim that prosperity is necessary for social justice is unhelpful. Baker-Collins/Kits, citing the Economic

Council of Canada, say that "there is no obvious correlation between successful economic performance and social spending." This statement leads one to ask many questions.

My questions would be: which countries are being studied? How current is this study? Are we not being a little too selective in our argumentation here? To what extent are these European countries compared in their productivity to the U.S.?

Increased resistance to more taxation for the purpose of redistributing wealth, the fact that these policies are not solving the problem of poverty and the fact that these programs lead to negligent behaviour among the disenfranchised is reason enough to consider taxation based on the redistribution of wealth legitimized theit.

Taxation is essential for a government to maintain essential services. Health care is not essential!

If Baker-Collins/Kits had argued from that perspective and had focused more on recent studies, their response to Clarence Bick would have been more informative. However, their concluding paragraph that "learn(ing) from ... the people of God in the Old Testament and in the early church... [who] shared their material resources with each other" demonstrates without a doubt that their socialist bent gets in the way of aiding the Christian community toward a more mature witness in the world.

Rob Van Keulen Grand Rapids, Mich.

Comment/Letters

The pitfalls of pacifism

The spirit of pacifism is alive and well on the pages of the Christian Courier. I say this without contempt because I greatly respect the fine effort of Mr. Bert Witvoet and his editorial staff. Their weekly attempt to present from a Christian perspective the complex issues of the turbulent times we live in is always enlightening and thought-provoking.

Allow me, however, to question Witvoet's pacifist stance in his article "Intervention in Somalia seen at best as necessary evil" (C.C. Jan. 1, 1993).

Pacifism, as I see it, is too often synonymous with appeasement. Aggression, as history has proven time and again, feeds on appeasement.

In 1938 the then British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain stepped off the plane in London, England, smiled at a cheering crowd and, waving a piece of paper, claimed to have achieved "peace in our time." That piece of paper, the Munich Agreement, contained a non-aggression treaty signed by Hitler and Chamberlain. On Oct. 1, 1938, the London Times proudly stated: "No conqueror returning from a victory on the baulefield has come home with nobler laurels than Mr. Chamberlain from Munich yesterday."

The Munich Agreement became the symbol of the folly of appeasement. Six months later, on March 15, 1939. Hitler's armies overran hapless Czechoslovakia under the pretext that that country had fallen apart. Does Hitler's justification for territorial expansion (Lebensraum) sound familiar today? I dare say so.

The concern I have is that there are too many "Chamberlains" in the Western media today. The danger of a utopian idea of world peace is still very real. The Christian dilemma is: To what extent can we support the world's idea of peace when the world rejects Christ as King of Peace?

Peace from the top is fine

In the aforementioned article, Ed Epp from Winnipeg is said to be "against the approach taken by U.S. leaders to force peace from the top down." What does Epp mean by 'forcing peace from the top down"?

When at the end of World War II Germany and Japan were forced to surrender by the military might of the Allied forces, that obviously was "peace from the top down."

I believe that this latter kind of peace, achieved by force, was morally justified, although I abhor guns, bombs and violence in general. I. like pacifists, love peace. However, I also believe in justice. I firmly stand in the "just war" tradition.

Please, Mr. Witvoet, let's give the U.S. credit for taking on a thankless and dangerous assignment in Somalia. So far, I have not heard that any of the starving people in Somalia are complaining about the U.S. military initiative.

> Henry Lammers, St. Catharines, Ont.

How many women can he handle?

It was with great interest that I read (C.C., Jan. 15) that Rem Kooistra has "been married to the same women for almost half a century." He only mentions his wife Janet by name, and "for example." I hope his other wives don't feel left out!

Margaret Griffioen-Drenth, Burlington, Ont.

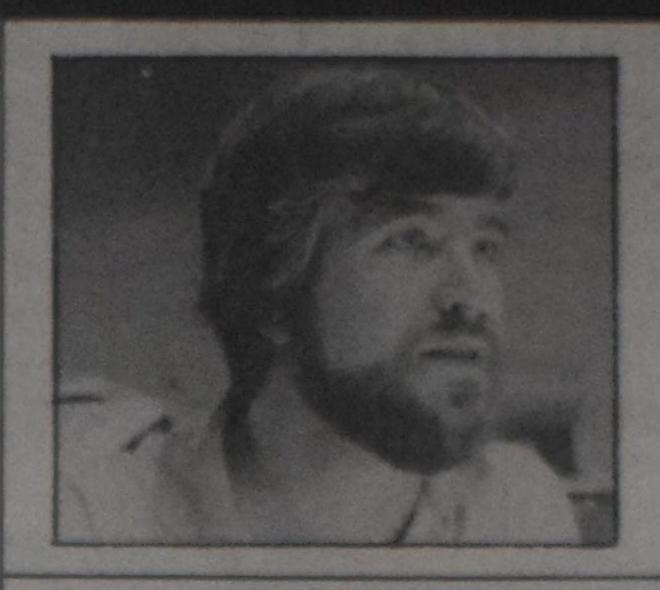

Reader wants 'out'

If Peter and Marja are "IN" but throw Christ out of the Christian Heritage Party, then I don't need your un-Christian Courier anymore.

Jacob De Raadt, Ruthven, Ont.

Just a moment/Herman Praamsma

'What we gave, we have; What we spent, we had; What we left, we lost.' (Epitaph on the Earl of Devon, — 1419)

An epitaph is an inscription on a monument in honour or memory of the dead. It can also be simply a eulogy, in prose or verse, composed without any intention of having it inscribed anywhere. An epitaph means to convey some wisdom which relates to the life of the person who has departed. It can move the hearer or passerby to reflect on the meaning of life or perhaps on that which has lasting value in the presence of eternity. An epitaph can be humourous as well:

This is the grave of Mike O'Day

Who died maintaining his right of way.

His right was clear, his will was strong.

But he's just as dead as if he'd been wrong.

One of my favourite epitaphs is found in Chester Cathedral, in England:

Give me a good digestion, Lord, And also something to digest:

Give me a healthy body, Lord. With sense to keep it at its best: Give me a healthy mind, good Lord.

To keep the good and pure in sight.

Which seeing sin is not appalled

But finds a way to set it right: Give me a mind that is not bored.

That does not whimper, whine, or sigh.

Don't let me worry overmuch About the fussy thing called I. Give me a sense of humour,

Give me the grace to see a joke. To get some happiness from life And pass it on to other folk.

In the last six weeks I have had a number of funerals to conduct and to attend. Some people claim that December and January are "dying months." Be that as it may, it certainly focused my attention on things like eulogies, epitaphs, and the legacy that people leave behind.

What is it that you would like people to remember of your life? What final message would you choose to convey to those who remain behind, if you had the opportunity? I'm sometimes tempted to ask people, regardless of their age or health: "What would you like me to say at your funeral?"

Don't think of that as macabre or negative, rather take it as an invitation to reflect on those things that give your life meaning, things you have either learned or still need to learn.

O teach us, Lord, to count our days.

And set our hearts on wisdom's ways! (from Ps. 90)

Herman Praamsma is pastor of Immanuel Christian Reformed Church, Brampton, Ont.

Is someone waiting for you?

More job openings are available ministry, there are mission agencies and churches looking for qualified candidates. We can help you prepare.

than RBC graduates can fill. RBC There are people waiting for graduates you. If you have a heart for with the Bachelor of Religious Education degree are involved in church education, evangelism and church planting, overseas missions, social service, seminary, urban ministries, youth ministry.

Answer the call.

Contact RBC Admissions 3333 East Beltline NE Grand Rapids, MI 49505 (616) 363-2050

Reformed Bible College: sending graduates into ministry careers for 52 years

JANUARY 29, 1993 PAGE 7

Cinema/Arts

Cinema summaries

Marian Van Til

Chaplin

Rated PG

Stars Robert Downey, Ir., Anthony Hopkins, Kevin Kline, Dan Ayktoyd, Diane Lane, Geraldine Chaplin Directed by Richard Attenborough

There is an eeric resemblance between American actor Robert Downey, Jr. and the great British comedian/silent film star Charlie Chaplin. The similarity is not just in appearance. Downey as Chaplin captures every comical move, every minute gesture, and the waddling gait of the comedian's most famous character. The Tramp. And he catches the persona of Chaplin himself. Equally important. Downey's British accent is absolutely convincing. His performance is a fascinating tour de force worthy of winning an Oscar.

In 1914 at age 25 when Chaplin immigrated to the U.S. and came onto the silent movie scene, he quickly became known as "the funniest man in the world." Chaplin's revered place in, and effect on, film history were assured.

Troubled personal life

His personal life, however, was far less successful. Chaplin had a reputation as a womanizer and had a particular penchant for young women. He married four times, though his last marriage, to Oona O'Neill, daughter of playwright Eugene O'Neill, lasted 34 years until his death in 1977.

Attenborough's view of Chaplin is extremely sympathetic, some would say too much so. He creates sympathy for Chaplin's flaws by showing the poverty-filled and emotionally uncertain conditions in which Chaplin grew up: his father was absent and his mentally unstable mother was soon committed to an asylum. It obviously took Charlie decades to learn how to accept — and give — love.

Bittersweet

Perhaps because of his early experiences, Chaplin developed a social conscience which is visibly present in even his lightest films. That got him into trouble, however, with powerful anti-communist fanatics like J. Edgar Hoover, longtime head of the FBI.

Hoover was convinced Chaplin was a communist. He tried, unsuccessfully, to get Chaplin (still a British subject) deported for sexually consorting with minors. Finally, after Chaplin had lived in the U.S. for 30 years he left the country to visit Britain and Hoover managed to have Chaplin's immigration visa pulled — unless he would agree to an "investigation" of his personal and political life. Chaplin refused; he settled in Switzerland where he spent the rest of his life with Oona and their eight children. (There was one happy reprieve, however, when he returned to the U.S. in 1972 to accept an Oscar "for the incalculable effect he has had in making motion pictures the art form of this century.")

At times Attenborough's film gets bogged down by just too many details — yet some of what this review has just explained is not very clearly presented in the film. Often when scenes change a subtitle tells us the setting of the new scene. While that is necessary information and is preferable to inserting convoluted plot transitions, it becomes distracting. Attenborough apparently loved his subject; yet there's a curious flatness to some of his story-telling here. Still, this is a film worth seeing. If you enjoy Chaplin's work this cinematic biography will be particularly interesting to you. And if you don't know Chaplin's films it will make you want to sample them.

Video review: Beautiful Dreamers

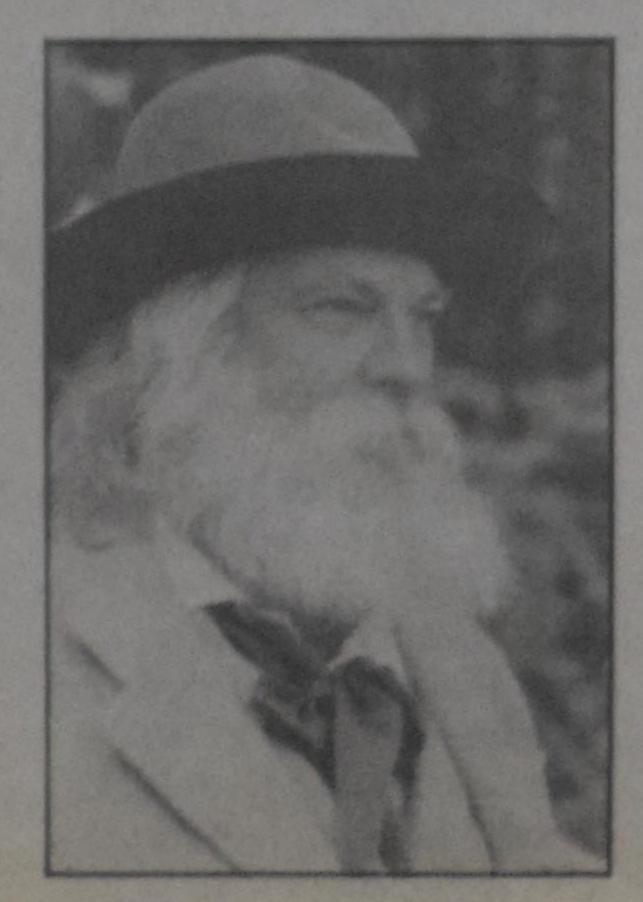

Stars Rip Torn, Colm Feore,
Wendel Meldrum, Marsha
Moreau, David Gardner, Sheila
McCarthy
Written and directed by John Harrison.

This is a Canadian-made film based on some little-known information writer-director John Harrison dug up about America's most famous — and scandalously sensual — poet of the 19th century, Walt Whitman.

During the summer of 1880. Whitman, then 61 years old, made the first of two extended visits to London, Ont., as the guest of Dr. Richard Maurice Bucke, head psychiatrist (then a fledgling profession) at the London Asylum for the Insane. Beautiful Dreamers shows Whitman and Bucke meeting at a gathering of doctors of psychiatry in Philadelphia where Bucke was appalled by barbaric attitudes disguised in clinical appropriateness, and where free-thinker Whitman had gravitated to the empathetic, unconventional Dr. Bucke. In fact, Bucke was an older man at this time than he is portrayed in the film, and he had become captivated by Whitman through his poetry.

Bucke was an admirer of mysticism and he "attributed to Whitman's poetry a mystical experience that convinced him of the hopeful order in the universe," according to the Oxford Illustrated Literary Guide to Canada. Bucke later wrote the first biography of Whitman and was one of the editors of the 10-volume work, The Complete Writings of Walt Whitman (1902) — none of which the film tells us.

Whitman himself, as Beautiful Dreamers presents, did have a brother who was retarded and considered insane, but whom Whitman refused to institutionalize. Whitman became a sort of inspiring cheerleader for Bucke and his own new, compassionate brand of treatment.

(At that time it wasn't uncommon at the asylum to treat depression or "erratic" behaviour in women —some of which, we might guess, had been caused by sexual and other abuse — by removing their ovaries!)

Whitman's book of poems, Leaves of Grass, (published 1855) had been banned in Boston and an air of scandal followed him even to Ontario. But just what that scandal was is never defined in this film. Certainly, there was a clash of values, a "19th century Yankee hippie" versus "Victorian Ontario," as one writer put it. After all, the man ate asparagus with his fingers, sang opera at the top of his lungs while bathing, and skinny-dipped with Bucke in the river nearby!

To be sure, Whitman and the staid people of London must not have seen eye to eye on very many things. But only if you've studied Whitman and his poetry do you know that his finely crafted poems exalt not only nature and extreme individualism ("I celebrate myself, and sing myself") but homo-erotic love.

While that knowledge, and knowledge of Whitman's personal life, throw a somewhat different light on the Whitman presented in this story, that should not diminish the fact that the poet's temporary association with Bucke and their development of a more humane treatment of asylum inmates (the patients were, literally, prisoners) is a heart-warming story.

The performances here are excellent. Colm Feore, known particularly for his theatre work at Stratford, catches the nuances of Maurice Bucke's earnest character. Toronto actress Wendel Meldrum captures Mrs. Jessie Bucke's inner conflict at moving from a prudent, neatly structured Victorian world toward the more dangerous but far more challenging world of the 20th century. And American actor Rip Torn presents as captivating a Walt Whitman as is possible within the somewhat sanitized environment of this film. Reviewed by Marian VanTil

Complete works of Italian film master Antonioni at Art Gallery of Ontario

TORONTO (CO) -Respected American film director Martin Scorsese recently called the 80-year-old Antonioni "one of the greatest artists of the 20th century." Cinematheque Ontario launches the 1993 Winter Film Series with a tribute to Michelangelo Antonioni, the undisputed "maestro" of Italian cinema. From Jan. 25 to Feb. 14 at the re-opened Art Gallery of Ontario's (AGO's) Jackman Hall, the Cinematheque presents the complete works of Antonioni, comprised of 15 feature and 10 short and "diary" films. Outside of this series. few of the director's works are available in Canada.

Modernist Master: The Complete Works of Michelangelo Antonioni allows a very rare indepth look at one of cinema's greatest directors. Cinematheque Ontario is one of only five organizations successful todate in securing this presentation. The exclusive Canadian presentation follows engagements in both Paris and New York. A photo exhibit of stills from Antonioni's films will run during the same dates as the film series at the Instituto Italiano di Cultura (Institute of Italian Culture) not far from the AGO.

New CRC survey identifies membership trends

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich.
(CRCNA) — Who are the members of the Christian Reformed Church (CRC)? How interested are they in local ministry and denominational ministry? And how much have their ideas and perceptions changed during the past five years? In search of answers to these questions and more, the directors of the CRC ministry agencies sponsored a formal survey of CRC members across the United States and Canada in 1992.

In the past five years — since the last denominational survey for the church agencies was conducted — the survey respondents seem to have become older, more educated, better paid and slightly less isolated. According to Rodger Rice and Ann Annis of the Calvin Social Research Center that conducted the survey:

- * the average age of respondents was 49 in 1992 compared to 46 in 1987;
- * the percentage of people with less than high school education decreased from 25 to 15 percent and the percentage of people with some college education increased from 47 to 56 percent;
- * the median total household income of respondents increased 33 percent from $31,000 in 1986 to $41,200 in 1991 (unadjusted for inflation or U.S. vs. Canadian dollars);
- * six percent fewer people said that the majority of their friends are CRC, compared to the 1987 survey.

Rice and Annis cautioned that all percentages are subject to a sampling error of plus or minus four percent.

Understanding who the members are provides a background for interpreting how they "rated" their denominational and local ministries. Overall, CRC members seem pleased with the church and are a loyal group. Some 55 percent of the respondents consider themselves very loyal to the CRC, with another 36 percent calling themselves somewhat loyal, for a total of 91 percent.

Too bureaucratic

Some 97 percent of the respondents said they think the CRC ministry agencies are engaged in important work, and 94 percent felt that, overall, the agencies do a good job. Gary Mulder, agency director for CRC Publications, chaired the committee that conducted the survey. "We're extremely pleased with the overall support of what we do and how we do it," said Mulder. "We do recognize some trends that give us cause for concern, however."

For example, there was an increase in the number of people who feel the agencies "have too many administrators and office staff." This number increased from 56 percent in 1987 to 64 percent in 1992.

Another area of concern is people's perception that the ideas and philosophies of the agencies "are different from my own"; this number increased from 40 to 46 percent since 1987. Mulder found it interesting that fewer baby boomers (people born between 1946 and 1964) and those with at least some college education perceived such differences.

People also responded to questions about specific agencies. Nearly two thirds of respondents said they would recommend Calvin College to a family member or friend; however, 80 percent agreed that the college "needs the CRC to guide its spiritual and moral life," and 71 percent thought the college should be ethnically diverse. Almost half of the respondents were familiar with CRC Home Missions' goal of the CRC growing to 400,000 members by the year 2000. And 69 percent of respondents said they read The Banner, the CRC's denominational magazine, although the percentage of paid subscribers has dropped.

Local ministries healthy, but tolerance needed

Local church ministries also received high evaluations. Two of every three respondents:

- * rated their pastor and elders as good or excellent;
- * said they have tried to lead

someone to Christ within the past five years;

- * feel that the current system of denominational ministry shares (formerly called quota) to support ministry agencies should not change although this number is slightly down from 1987;
- * report that they contribute the recommended amount of money to church causes. Note: 51 percent give between $1,000-2,500 per year; another 22 percent give $2,500-5,000; and another five percent give more than $5,000 which means that four out of five respondents give $1,000 or more per year to their local church.

The church should also take note of some less-than-positive feedback regarding perceptions of local church ministries:

- * 40 percent of respondents reported that "tolerance of internal differences of opinion" in their local church is ineffective or very ineffective;
- * at least one in five respondents felt his or her church is ineffective in meeting the needs of the unchurched in the community:
- * only one in five respondents attended adult education classes every week; most adults attended less than once a month or never;

* one in three respondents gave their elders fair to poor ratings, and rated their pastor fair to poor in the areas of evangelism, church growth, and church management administration.

According to Peter
Borgdorff, executive director of ministries for the CRC, the results of the survey will be used to assist the church in planning and decision-making. He foresees these results as being valuable for people involved in local ministries, for directors and boards of specific denominational agencies, and for those involved in oversight of the coordinated denominational ministry efforts.

Copies of the complete survey report, totalling more than 300 pages, may be obtained from the Calvin Social Research Center (c/o Calvin College, 3201 Burton St. SE, Grand Rapids, MI 49546, Ph. (616) 957-6229 for $16.00 U.S. A smaller abridged report containing a summary of the results can be purchased for $4.00 U.S.

Evangelical Fellowship calls for removal of Leon's 'faith belittling' ad

The Reverend Brian C.
Stiller, executive director of the Evangelical Fellowship of Canada, in a letter to Mr. Mark Leon, president of Leon's Furniture, asked that his nationwide company pull from the media, advertising which "belittles people of faith."

The ad he refers to uses the caricature of an American televangelist, easily recognized by his southern drawl and American look. The company's theme word is "miracle" and it plays on the hucksterism sometimes associated with televangelists.

Stiller admits that some such evangelists manipulate the media and distort the message of the Gospel. However the company, by use of the ad, is "stooping to belittle those whose faith you may not understand or may even downright dislike. But this does not justify the use of your economic muscle to ridicule a particular expression of faith," wrote Stiller.

Wouldn't do that to other religions

In relating this to other religions. Stiller noted to the president that he was sure they would not make fun of other forms for the sake of an ad campaign. He asked, "Would you allow your advertising agency to develop a commercial built on the ways and styles of, say, Hasidic Jews? Or a particular movement within the Hindu faith or of Canadian Native spirit uality? -I think not. Yet you assume your public credibility will grow by resorting to scorn and sarcasm in this TV ad."

In commenting on Canadian

"Pluralism is essential to our Canadian sense of democracy and entrenched in our Charter of Rights and Freedoms. In essence it provides for peoples of different faith, language, colour, etc., an environment in which they can live in an atmosphere of respect for each other and their differences. Without that respect, pluralism breaks down, and the powerful (in this case the advertiser) feel free to humiliate and mock any minority group with abandon for their own benefit or promotion."

pluralism. Stiller noted.

Stiller asked Mark Leon to pull this offensive ad in the interest of respect and concern for religious belief and fair play in Canada.

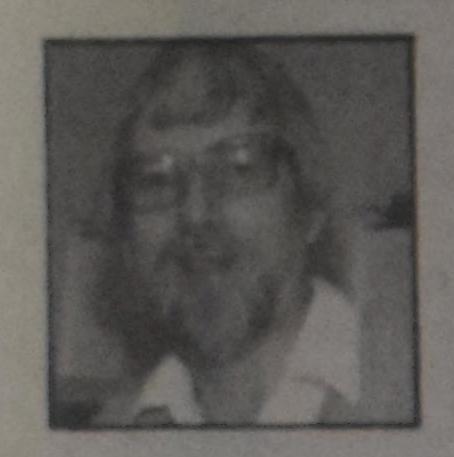

ATTENTION ALL EDUCATIONAL INSTITUTIONS

Let us know if you wish to advertise in Christian Courier's special 1993 education issue.

Date of issue: February 19
Mailing date: February 16
Deadline for ads: February 10

We are offering a 25% discount! Send your information a.s.a.p. to:

Stan de Jong Christian Courier 4-261 Martindale Rd. St. Catharines, ON L2W 1A1 Phone: (416) 682-8311 Fax: (416) 682-8313

A Presbyterian Comments

Robert J. Bernhardt

Sociologist Reginald W. Bibby has had a significant impact on the way Canadian churches see themselves. His book, Fragmented Gods, published in 21987, was an attempt to shed dight on "the nature and role of religion in Canada." From his Town studies and the work of bothers, Bibby was able to document convincingly the declining influence of the Christian church on Canadian culture.

While Bibby was not the first to draw attention to the declining strength of mainline Christian churches in Canada. he has given the harsh realities a much higher visibility. His studies have explored not only

At least 2,000 languages now nave Scripture

Iarian Van Til READING, England (TBL)

the A milestone in the history of hristianity was reached in late 1992 when a portion of Scripleure was translated into the 2.000th language of the world. The Bible League announced at the beginning of this month. The Bible League (formerly the World Home Bible League) is headquartered in South Holland, Illinois, with Canadian headquarters in Weston, Ontano.

Estimates as to the number of languages in the world range from as low as 3,000 to over 6,000, says The League. Bible societies are estimating that more than 80 percent of the world's population has access to the Bible or at least part of it in a language they can understand. However, Bible translators and distributors admit that factors such as geographical isolation, illiteracy, political and social problems, and the difficulty of grasping meaning in a language which is not one's mother tongue make this estimate misleading.

Though the translating of that 2,000th language is complete, a translated manuscript can take up to a year to publish, notes The League. The Forum of Bible Agencies, an informal group of 17 Bible translation and distribution organizations, is currently publishing jointly a cluster of five languages, all of which could easily qualify for the place of 2,000.

League milestone too

Among those five is a Gospel of Mark in the Zapoteco: Amatlan language, which is spoken by 6,000 people in the southernmost Mexican state of Oaxaca. It is being published by The Bible League and was translated by Wycliffe Bible Translators. The other four languages in the "cluster" of five are spoken by groups in Cameroon, Latin America, Russia and Côte d'Ivoire. Since the 1960s cooperation between Wycliffe and The League has led to the publication of Scriptures in a number of little-known languages spoken only by remote tribes and groups of people.

ADA REALTY LTD. 6012 Ada Blvd. Edmonton, AB (403) 471-1814 Sid Vandermeulen

Contact us first when you think of moving to Edmonton and district.

Het vertrouwde adres.

the statistics of church membership, but also have revealed the spiritual and social concerns of the current generation of church members.

Essentially Bibby challenged Christians to consider why contemporary culture is having a greater impact on the church than the church is making on Canadian culture. His conclusions were sombre. Among them was the suggestion that currently declining church membership figures were not an aberration. In fact, Bibby declared, "If religious groups continue to operate essentially as they are at present, what can be projected with a high degree of confidence is a continued drop-off in regular attendance at services."

Presbyterians no different

As a Presbyterian I have been following our own statisties with concern for a number of years. A review of the 1991 figures is hardly reassuring.

In 1991 the Presbyterian Church in Canada dropped a further 1,625 members nationally over the previous year. While that represented a decline of only one percent it is part of a trend that has seen a decline of six percent during the previous decade.

Of even greater concern is the evidence that the younger portion of the Presbyterian Church is also in sharp decline. During 1991. Sunday school enrollment dropped less than one percent from the previous year. However, the total decline in Sunday school enrolment in Presbyterian congregations over the decade from 1981-1991 is a stunning 24 percent. In 1991 the average Presbyterian congregation had a Sunday school enrolment of only 35, compared to an average of 45 a decade earlier.

The consequences of membership decline are no doubt also being felt on the financial side. Giving to Presbyterian congregations in 1991 was up 4.6 percent over 1990. However, when it is considered that Statistics Canada reports that nationally, giving to charitable organizations was up seven percent in Canada in 1991, the Presbyterian performance is not quite so impressive.

Time running out?

Given the difficulties denominations have in achieving the necessary consensus to establish effective program changes, the future seems to rest with local initiatives. With hope, individual Presbyterians in local congregations will become aware of these realities and be prepared to seek serious answers to why things are going the way they are. If local congregations cannot be moved to see the need for some plan of response, General Assembly resolutions will never have an impact. The work of Bibby and others offers comments and critique which would serve as a good starting point. However, the reality is that in many local situations time is running out.

Robert Bernhardt is pastor of Chalmers Presbytenan Church, Hamilton, Ont.

FROM COAST TO COAST

ENGLISH RADIO:

BRITISH COLUMBIA

Abbotsford-ceva	7:30am	850
Burns Lake-CFLD
Kitimat-cktk
Osoyoos-ckoo
Penticton-ckok
Port Albemi-CJAV	10:30an	11240
Prince George-CIRX.
Prince George-CIBC		94.3
Princeton-CKAP
Smithers-CFBV
Summerland-cksp
Vancouver-c.vs
Vancouver-(Im)
Vernon-cuis
ALDED

ALBERTA 8:00am 1340

DIVUNS UNDITHER OF OVERIT	INAM
Edmonton-CHMG7:00am	1070
Edmonton-CHQT7:30am	880
Edson-caya 10:00an	n 970
Ft. McMurray-cJok 9:00am	1230
High River-CHAB6:30am	1280
St. Albert-CHMG7:00am	1070
Taber-cfez 8:00am	1570

SASKATCHEWAN

Weyburn-cfsL8:00am	Est	teva	n-cu	SL.,		 8:00	am.	1280
	We	ybu	m-c	FSL		 8:00	am

MANITOBA

Altona-CFAM9:30am	950
Steinbach-CHSM 9:30am	1250
Winnipeg-cxus9:15am	810

ONTARIO

Ајах-сноо	9	:30am 1390
Atikokan-o	FAK9	:30am 1240

Burlington-cing (Im)	. 8:00am 107.9
Chatham-crco
Guelph-cloy
Hamilton-CHAM
Kapuskasing-ckap
Kingston-cFMK
Newmarket-ckan
Oshawa-ckan
Owen Sound-cros
Pembroke-CHVR
Sault Ste Marie-CFYN
St.Catharines-CKTS
Samia-снок
Stratford-cacs
Timmins-ckoy
Windsor-cklw
Wingham-CKNX
Woodstock-ckok (tm)

NEW BRUNSWICK

Frederiction-CFNB	o suam	220
Newcastle-CFAN	9:00am	790
Saint John-CHSJ	9:00am	700

PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND Charlottetown-crcy...7:00am 630

QUEBEC Montreal-cron (tm) 7:30am 92.5

NOVA SCOTIA

Digby-CKDY	5:00am	1420
Kentville-CKEN	8:30am	1490
Middleton-ckap
New Glasgow-cki	ec 7:30am	1320
Sydney-cucs
Weymouth-CKDY.
Windsor-CFAB

FRENCH RADIO: Perspectives Réformées

ONTARIO

LETTERS.	MS-CE		9:
2.15.137.15		SPER SALE	THE RESERVE OF THE PARTY.	Make and 12

QUEBEC

Montreal-cons		:00am	1090
Valleyfield-CFI	٧8	:45am	1370

TELEVISION: Faith 20-TV

(Monday to Friday) on the Global TV Network

Check your local listings for cable outlets airing Faith 20.

Vision-TV

(Every Daturday)
British Columbia 4:00		7:00pm
Alberta5:00	8	8:00pm
Sask. & Manitoba 6:00	8	9:00pm
Ontario & Quebec 7:00	&	10:00pm
NMd, N.B., N.S. & P.E.J. 8:00	8	11:00pm

THE BACK TO GOD HOUR

P.O. Box 5070, Burlington, ON L7R 3Y8 (416) 336-2920

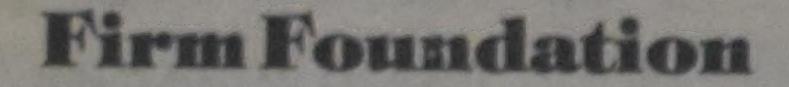

To My Daughter

You stand before me like a tender fragile blossom the fresh dew of a new day's experience sparkling in your eyes

May I not mar your silken loveliness with my clumsy impatience to unfold the crinkles of your adolescence but stand instead beside you with the trellis of my love supporting your wandering vines with the firm rootedness of having a sure place to stand nurturing you with the sunshine of encouragement and watering you daily with thirst quenching living water.

> Linda Siebenga, Blackfalds, Alta.

I am a tree: Deep roots Anchoring me in life. Securely Holding on: Entwining myself In a Firm Foundation: Life vibrantly Pulsing through the Rings and rings Of the steadfast trunk: The rough bark Keeping all together And the exuberant. Crowning glory of the Pure leafy green. Changing in its beauty.

> Melinda Paas, Burlington, Ont.

Lord, Make Me

Lord, make me bread! Grind me if You must; Knead me in Your shaping hands Until the holy yeast expands; Until each crumb and every crust Will nourish those who must be fed; Until You take, and break, And multiply, And parcel me where need demands, To those who cry For Living Bread.

Ruth Glover, The Dalles, Oregon.

Camped at the Edge of Paradise Pines

"My heaven will be spent on earth up until the end of the world." St. Therese of Lisieux, 1878-97.

> sky-pointing country, to the fluted assertions of birds. sunrise to land: again and again earth seams heaven rooted, reaching up, coming to no dead end. are not stunned by such beauty.

> > Helen Petter Westra, Allendale, Mich.

Along the slopes of this evergreen grace stitches with dawn's finest threads at the morning's selvage, a rose and emerald border A time will come when we

Co-Dependency

Lord.

I can no longer live

In an empty past.

Barely existing

In an environment Long Forgotten by You But not by me. Lord, I need to go back ... One more time. Not to wallow in the pain But to bury the dead: The false guilt And the failures I carry still today. Lord. Give me courage To face them Without shame confront them Without anger And leave them Without fear. Lord. Give me wisdom To return Without self-pity trust Without compromise And continue Without blame. Lord. Give me insight so that at last ... I can claim The future I deserve. Standing firm in my convictions; Answering only for today.

Marcia Krugh Leaser, Fremont, Ohio

New God

Boisterous new God

I wish you were As quiet as the God I knew in innocence. He was the God I held in warm fists, But YOU burn a different candle, Answer from a different Bible. See in shades of gray. You are a fighting bird, An eagle turning my soul's rapture over. A desperate God trying to Untangle my soul from the world.

> Marion Schoeberlein, Elmhurst, Ill.

Feature

A camvas filled with joy and pain

Jac Ceuzebrock

the fourth floor a window opened and a woman stuck out her head. When she saw me she yelled, "Oh, it's you. I'll open the door." And so she did by pulling on a rope leading from one floor to another along the stairways of those typically high and narrow Ainsterdam homes.

A few moments later, after having climbed three flights of steep stairs, I was standing in a huge living room/studio, more studio than living room, I recall. It was a large room with a glass ceiling. In it were exhibited many paintings, large and small.

request of one of my fellow ministers. The address was in his district, known as the wallettes — the "red-light district" — in downtown Amsterdam. The woman of the house had moved to this address upon marrying her artist husband.

My pastor friend had found her name on the membership list of his church. She was a member by baptism. His efforts to see her had been all in vain. When he happened to meet her later on and tried to make an appointment, she had told him that the only minister welcome in her house was the one who morked as a minister in the hospitals.

When my friend told me about it I understood the reason. The North Line of State of the line of the nurse and as a patient. She had been one of many nurses I had met in my work. But then one day I met her in the mental ward of one of the big bospi-The where the wat appartent A victim of sexual abuse by her father, she had come to the point at which the fell the could no longer live with all the unresolved problems in her heart. She had travel to entit it all I had visited her regularly but after her discharge we had look contact. And here I was, in her

Hostility barely contained

As far as she was concerned.

I was very welcome. But her husband wanted nothing to do with me. Since I was still in the "smoking stage" of my life, I oftered him a cigarette. He declined with the friendly remark. "I would feel offended smoking a cigarette given to me by a minister." I thanked him for this gesture since it so happened that I had only two cigarettes left.

During my discussion with his wife. I tried to involve him too, but did not succeed

In the meantime I had started to walk around in the spacious studio, looking at the paintings.
One especially caught my attention. It was a huge canvas

There was something very potential Note Miles all these years, I can still feel the strong impression it made on me: attractive, impressive, and yet somehow disturbing he had tried to express. The answer came short and sharp "If you can't see it, I can't est plain it to you."

"That sounds reasonable," I answered. "And that places you and me on the same path: I preach the Gospel, but if you don't see it, I can't really explain it to you either."

Another look painting and said: "Let me give it a try. I think you have tried to express the beauty of life the way you experience it. There's joy in it. But I also see something tragic. That's the pain you suffer; the beauty is not undisturbed; it's a broken beauty Now, that's where I come in with the Gospel. The cross of Jesus will stand in that schism that causes your pain. He is the only true healer for that brokenness!"

After I had said these words, something unexpected and startling happened. This huge man so full of bitterness — yes, almost hatred — completely broke down and cried uncon trollably

We didn't talk much after that. I helped him compose him self and than I left. But as I was leaving the studio he called after me. "Please do come again!" I promised I would. And Italia.

people "back" to their "own" minister. But not before the art ist had taught me a lesson, too

Having eyes to see about his meeting with two Jehovah's Witnesses. They had dropped in early one Sunday morning. After he had listened asked them quite abruptly,

"With all this talking about Goxi, may I ask you, have you already seen him this morning?"

They had looked puzzled, but he had taken them to a window overlooking the old Amsterdam canal. It was springtime and the beauty of the trees with their tender green leaves was overwhelming. He had said to his violon. You have walked under these trees for quite some distance this morning just to talk to me about God. But there he is, right in front of you in the beauty of all this new life. And you did not see him because you are too busy theorizing about him?"

That state and the character about God, but full to see him as he shows himself to us in the beauty all around us?

has Genzebroek is a retired (hossian Reformed passior and hospital chapitan who lives in Whithy (m)

Canal in Amsterdam

Environment

Letters from Moscow

Ray and Wilma Schrau

It was a mild day in the middie of December with the temperature around the freezing point when our bus left for Peredelkino. The sky was overcast, and light snow was gently falling as we left the huge apartment complexes of the city behind and entered rural Russia. Peredelkino is a well-known village about 30
km from Moscow. It took halfan-hour to get there.

Besides having a beautiful, gold-steepled, historic Russian Orthodox Church built during the 18th century, Peredelkino is prominent as a writers' retreat Among famous writers who have lived there it is probably best known as the home of Boris Pasternak, This Moscowborn writer spent 21 years of his life in Peredelkino during something the some the spiral movel Doctor Business II was there, on his wife's hinhday. Oct. 14, 1958, that news from Sweden reached him that he had been awarded the Nobel Prize for literature, which he was forced to turn down

As we entered the gate lead in the factorial land a little garden where he grew his own potatoes, we were struck by the solitude of the area difficulty all mound added to the peacefulness, and the snow-covered ground multipled the sound of our footsteps

A life captured

After climbing half a dozen steps we were greeted at the back door by two congenial clderly ladies who excitedly welcomed us in their native tongue. From there on an interpreter led the way through the museum which opened in 1990. 30) years after Pasternak's death. The interior is exactly as it was, simple and sparsely furnished. The dining room contained a large table covered with a white hind embroidered cloth where the fullinly entertained Intends tellow unists as well as foreign susmons Pictures decounting the scalls, most of them drawn or painted by Pasternak's father, are indicative of close family ties. A grand piano in the adjoining room belonged to Pasternak's second wife who was an accomplished concert pianist.

Perhaps the most interesting room is upstairs. It contains only two desks, a low one and a high one. A bookcase with a number of foreign-language texts, and some pictures on the wall, complete the furniture The room has a beautiful view of the garden, which inspired much of Pasternak's writing. He often stood at the high desk when working on a manuscript. Sitting for a long time was painful because of a knee injury due to a fall from a horse when a young boy. Close to the door hangs his dark blue coat with a belt and a reddish-brown wool-Jensseart Above thires a ricy black-simped cap On the floor. two black, round-toed boots stand as a silent witness of the times Pasternak enjoyed working in the garden.

Boris Pasternak faced much opposition. Soviet writers attacked him for having written Dr. Zhivago, saying it was not really Russian. New World magazine sent the manuscript back with the comment that it was not contemporary. Finally it was printed in Italy in the Russian language. After its publication, many slanderous statements about Pasternak were made on Russian radio and TV The kind author suffered greatly from this unjust criticism and it cost him the company of many so-called friends. It also affected his health. Two years after the English edition was published Boris Pasternak died a peaceful death. He had accomplished what he set out to do, satisfied that he had "nurtured" Dr. Zhivago to life

We paid our respects to this great man, as hundreds of american had done at his funeral, when we walked to the cemetery. A simple tombotone with the face of Dr. Zhavago etched on it marks this grave not far from his home. Here he

Harry Spaling
Ourplace and task in the environment

Ecophilosophies

Environmental problems are closely related to the way in which we humans view our environment. This view determines the type of relationship that exists between us and nature. Three views of the environment, or ecophilosophies, are apparent today.

One ecophilosophy places humans over nature: HUMANS

NATURE

In this view humans are separated from nature. Humans, dominate and are considered the master and exploiter. Nature is subservient, a storehouse of abundance and a servant to meet humans needs. Nature is controlled for human benefit.

This view underlies much of modern economic thinking and is the basis for resource economies buch as Canada. It reflects a belief that science and technology are the main instruments to control nature and to provide nature's products for human consumption and prosperity.

Equality?

A second ecophilosophy puts humans on an equal footing with nature:

HUMANS: NATURE

that we co-exist in a partnership with nature. In this view we must respect nature, mostly because nature cannot be over-harvested without threatening life-sustaining processes, but also because nature can display destructive power which is beyond human control. Humans are a part of nature, rather than apart from nature.

This type of thinking is behind much of aboriginal spirituality. It is also the basis of New Age ideas such as Mother Earth, a notion that gives a nurturing image to nature. Since humans depend on nature for sustenance, there must be respect for nature. But this respect is generally motivated by self-interest. Taking from nature is limited so that it can continue to give the products needed for human survival.

Nature as dominant force

A third ecophilosophy positions nature over humans:

NAMERE

In this view nature is the dominant force.

Humans must act in accord with natural processes or face the consequences of ecological disaster. Bio-rights take precedence over human rights. It includes an evolutionary perspective in that nature will survive with or without humans In its extreme form, nature is deified or made into a spiritual object to be appeared or feared.

The animal rights movement adopts much of this view. It is also evident in powerful environmental lobbying to protect endangered species or sensitive landscapes threatened by economic development. Environmental radicals express this view in their actions of active resistance against such activities as logging old growth forests and hunting baby seals. Scientists have recently extended ideas of evolutionary biology to a global scale through the Gaia hypothesis which suggests that the earth is a living organism directing its own survival.

Creator must be acknowledged

What is the Christian to make of these views?

Foremost, none of these views reflect scriptural insights. The Creator is not acknowledged in any of the ecophilosophies. Without this acknowledgement, relationships are either self-serving or biocentric.

The relationship between humans and nature a defined fully by the relationship of each to the Creator, Just as the Creator maintains the creation to must we I thewise, the prosessorthmess of creaton for the Creator is to be preserved by its. The focus on the Creator enables a relationship between humans and nature which allows both to fulfill their created mandate.

as the University of Guelph, Unit distribute and the profession will be a second to the second seco

Speak Singer which we had him

Meditation/Books

Friends of God

Wayne Brouwer

Discretion

When Benjamin Franklin was a boy he saw a shiny whistle on a shell in a glass case at the store his parents patronized. He hadly wanted that whistle. Every time he went into the store he'd stand there at the counter and imagine what that whistle would sound like. He had to have it knew exactly what to do with it. He went to the store, showed the proprietor his coin, and pointed to the whistle.

Disappointed

Ben's father was standing next to him at the time. "Ben," he said, "the you really sure that's what you want! Are you sure it's worth the price?"

Ben nodded quickly. He couldn't be more sure! He had had his eye on this treasure for a long time.

But his father cautioned him again. "Ben," he said, "someumes the things we think we want aren't really worth the price we're willing to pay."

Denichen tilister. He grabbed for the whistle and can out into the street. He blew on its mouthpiece and waited to hear a huge, shrill glonous noise. But instead, all that came out was a tiny peep. It sounded tunny and cheap.

He hated it! And he haten himself for buying it! And he said that he never blew on that whistle again!

Deception

But he kept it. And all through his life whenever there was something that he thought he really wanted, he took a look at that old tin whistle and he heard a voice in his heart that asked:
"It the whistle really worth the price you have to pay"

Most of us have old tin whistles that rattle around in our memories: things we bought that weren't worth half the price; relationships that made our souls poorer instead of richer; pas-times that wasted rather than enhanced our spirits.

pole once told the story of a group of young fellows who broke into a department store at night. They didn't steal anything but they did have a lot of "fun." They took the price tags off everything they could get their hands on and then they put them back in random arrangement.

In the morning people came shopping but the prices were ult messed up. Obviously, both the proprietor and the customers would quickly catch the mix-up. But, said Tony, how often in society don't we find ourselves like unwise shoppers who can't see the true value of things because of the mixed-up price tags?

Discovery

Discretion itself comes at a price. It costs us patience, some spontaneity, popularity. And often it costs us years and decades of our lives. As my Grandfather used to tell me: "Ve ger too soon oft, and too late schmam!"

Solomon hopes in speed the process up a hit with these proverbs. Maybe he can maybe he can't But one thing is certain only those who are seeking wisdom and discretion will find it.

War to the first of the first o

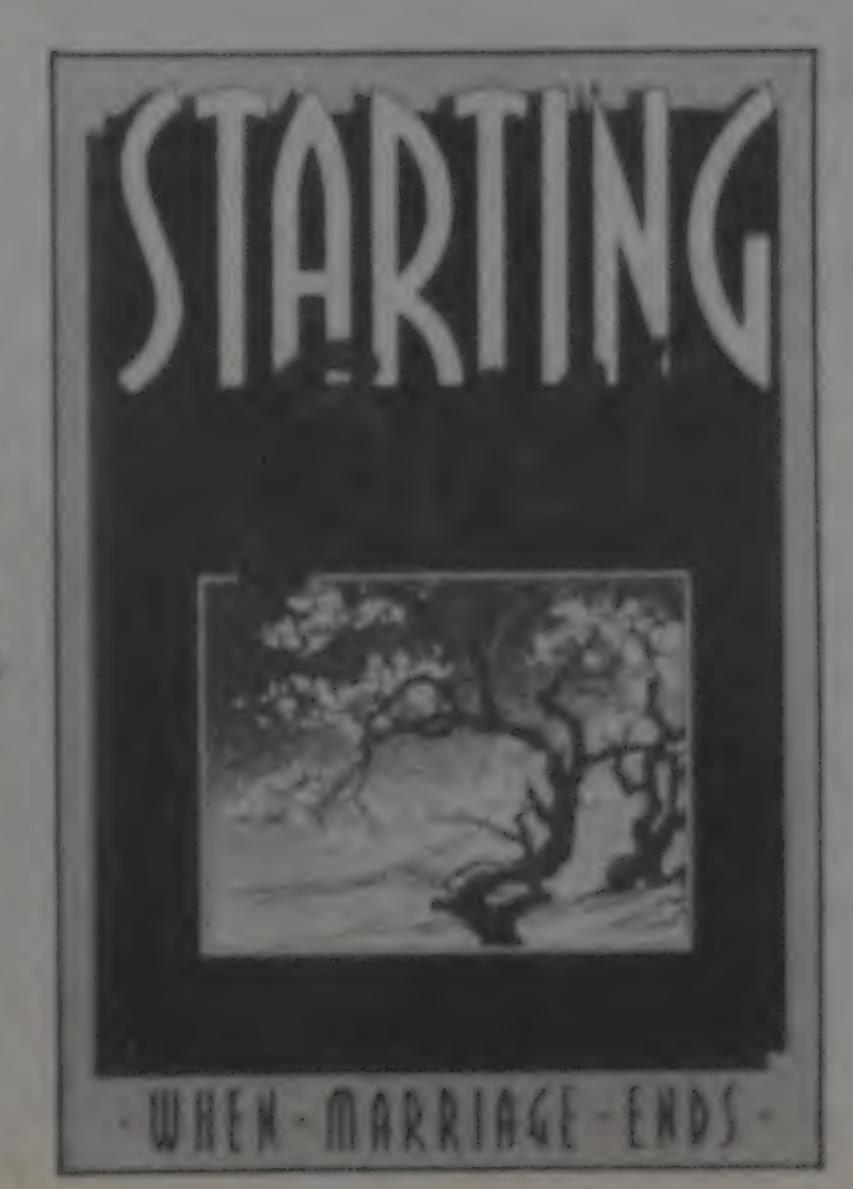

Life after divorce or a husband's death

Starting Over: When Marriage Ends, by Joyce J. lyra Waterloo, Ont.: Herald Press, 1992. ISBN 0-8361-3587-3 Software Wapp $7.50 Reviewed by Robert Vander Vennen

When a married woman finds her marriage finished through the death of her husband or through divorce, she often experiences the shock of her life. She needs to start over, and is blessed in that if she has triends who have "been there."

Joyce Tyra's husband died after a short illness and she found her own recovery to be difficult. But she made it, and in the process came across other women in similar circumstances.

She found that at first she was denying what had happened, and then she was angry.

Depression and guilt followed, and then acceptance and picking up the pieces

The story is written in a matter-of-fact, down to earth way. Tyra doesn't offer any amateur psychology or special tricks to try, But MALLY COSIDIE hank, It can be a help to women who are grieving the loss of a marriage. Tyra is a Christian, but her Matth and the church are not especially prominent in the story she tells.

Who were the Philistines?

New Archaeological Light on the Philistines, by Neal Bierling. Grand Rapids: Baker, 1992. ISBN 0-8010-1018-7. Softcover, 281 pp., $22.99. Reviewed by Robert Vander-Wennen.

prophecy of Zechariah, the Philistines keep popping up in Old Testament history. They are enemies of God's people, a constant vexation, people whom God used to chastise Israel, and also people to beat up on when Israel repented and won God's favour

But who were they? Where did they come from, and what kinds of lives did they lead?

In the last dozen years archaeological research has brought to the surface vast new information about the Philice time, say, Neal Mierting Archaeology now gives with information on 500 years of Philistine history from Joshua to Nehrchadnezean.

Mediterrinem sementaria Egypt to the Mt. Chinglings they evidently were Son Peoples including Mysengers from Crete and Tropus from the west coast of Asia Minor.
Some of them, like Goliath, were giants. They had a rather rich culture, and God did no:
let his people drive them off
the land

Bierling follows the development of the Philistines historically, interweaving archaeological discoveries with biblical references

coupon

SPECIAL OFFER

COUPON

4 4

OBTAIN YOUR FREE COPY

Building on the Rock

the directions on the Sermon an the Mount)
by Henry Van Andel

Send us $37.50 ($32.00 U.S.) as well as the name and address of yourself and the new subscriber. This offer is not valid for subscription renewals. Mail this coupon with your payment to

Christian Courier
4-261 Martindale Rd.
St. Catharines, ON L2W 1A1

News

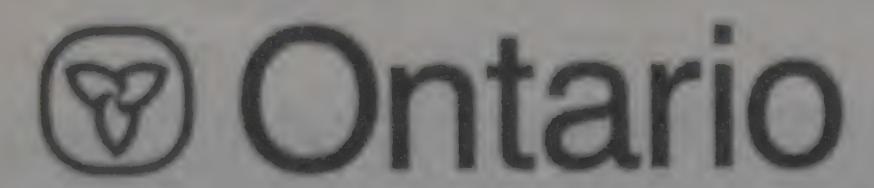

Changes to the Ontario Labour Relations Act take effect on January 1, 1993.

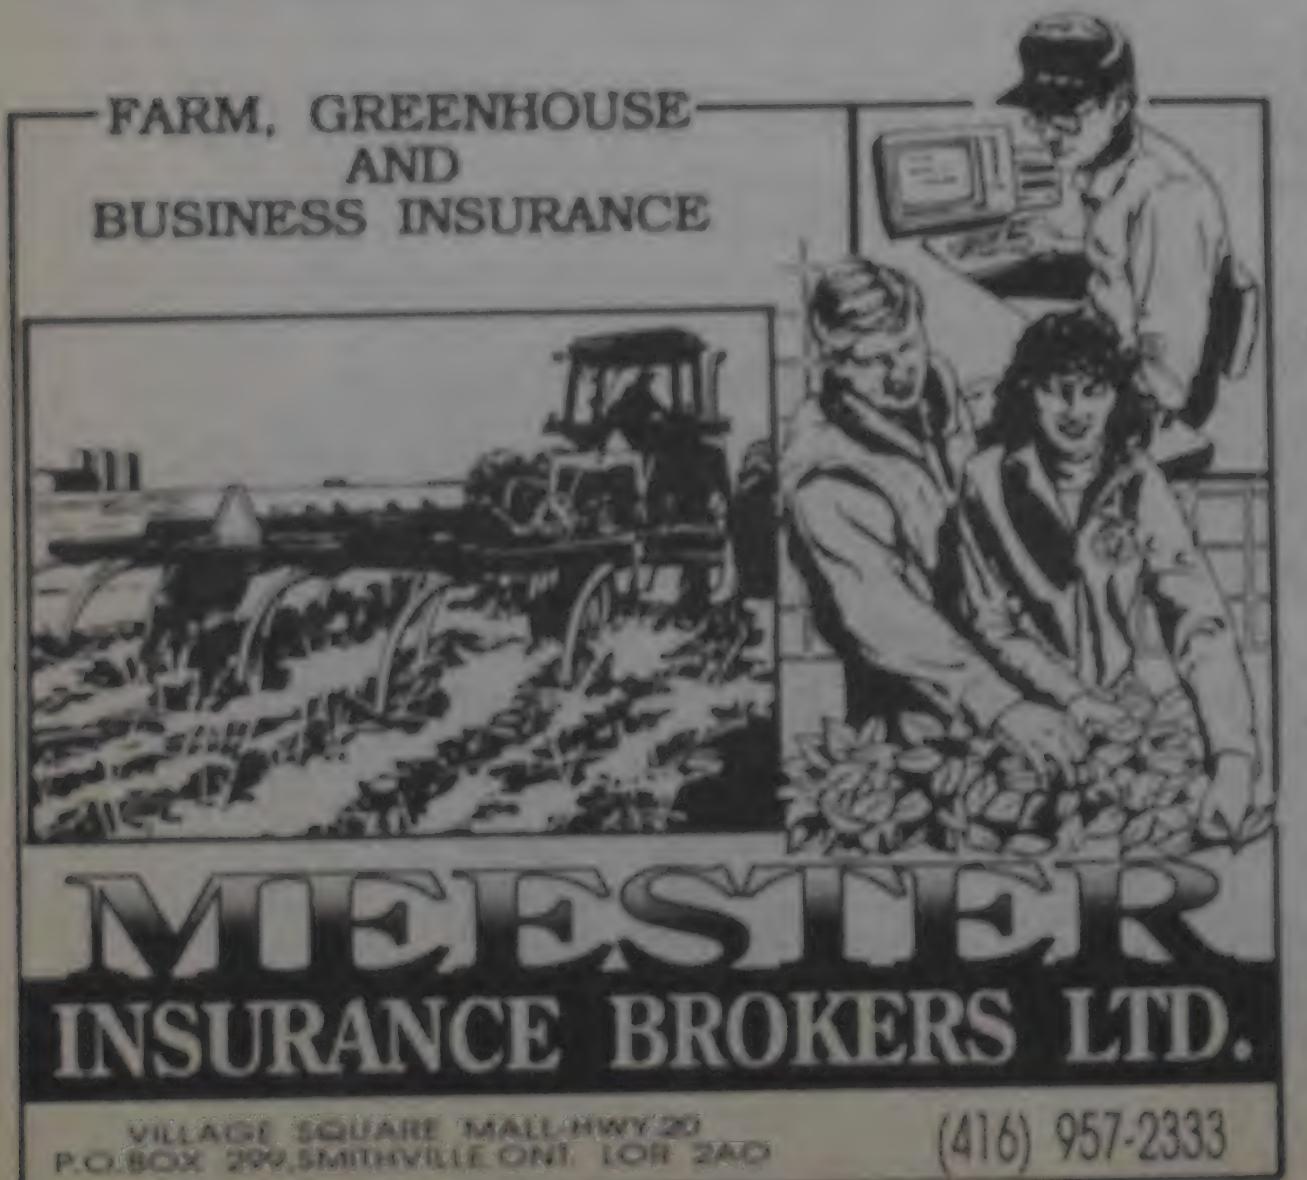

Amendments to the Labour Relations Act:

- o permit some workers not previously covered by the act to organize;
- provide new rights and protection to workers who choose to organize;
- encourage cooperation and consultation in unionized workplaces;
- put in place new rights and responsibilities for employers, employees and unions where there is a labour dispute.

For more information and a free pamphlet on the Labour Relations Act Reform, call 1-800-267-9517 from anywhere in Ontario or write:

> Ministry of Labour Information Centre 400 University Ave., 1st Floor Toronto, Ontario M7A 117

Clinton inspires hope

... continued from page 1 They are watching to see whether he will be soft on Iraq. for example. They point to his unwillingness to fight in Vietnam (Clinton protested against the Victnam war) and to his calm, un-Bush-like responses to Saddam Hussein's challen-

'This is not a secular man'

Despite his decidely un-Baptist views on some social issues, Bill Clinton is a Southern Baptist who attends church regularly. "In Washington [a president has] to belong to a church," asserted syndicated columnist Mark Shields on an Inauguration Day edition of the PBS's "MacNeil/Lehrer Newshour."

"But everybody expects you to keep your religion private. If you don't, you get into trouble. like Jimmy Carter...did. But there's no doubt that Clinton taker his religion very seminaly. This is not a secular man." Will he get into trouble because of it? Shields, a secular journalist, wondered

Many Christians, however, are not confident that Clinton will perform well on moral issues. One conservative publication called Clinton a "candidate of a lesser God," the Winnipeg Free Press reports

Clinton has clearly indicated that he supports "a woman's right to choose an abortion." But he insisted in his acceptance speech at the Democratic National Convention last July that "that does not mean [he's] in favour of abortion," or that he thinks abortion is a good charge in make. He is an recard as agreeing with the purpose of an Arkansas communal amendment which wants "to promote the health, safety and welfare of every unborn child from conception until birth." In a speech at Notre Dame University he indicated that he prefers Tracedom of conscience in musters of family and philosophy and faith."

Graham optimistic

Evangelist Billy Graham, a friend of both Republican and Democratic presidents since Eisenhower, has been criticized by other evangelicals for offering the invocation and benediction at Clinton's inauguration.

Graham admitted on Inauguration Day afternoon in an interview with CNN's Larry King that he doesn't agree with all of Clinton's views - abortion being one of them — but nevertheless thinks "Clinton wall be a very good president a much better president than many people think he will be."

Graham will not publicly criticize Clinton because then. he told Larry King, "I'd lose the opportunity to bring up these matters privately with him and to get him to think about it."

The man from Hope inspires hope

According to Dalton Camp. Clinton is the first president who is "intuitively comfortable in the company of African Americans and, certainly, the first who has been liberated from the habits of sexism."

That samue combot with blacks is very obsume. Lays Tam Limburg, pastor of the Washington, Dec Christian Reformed Church which is about one-third black. Then is an unbelievably optimistic spirit here right now. Black people in general, mulin my shurch and in the community here, are very excited Bill Clinton has made an effort to get to know our city; other presidents haven't done that U is so refreshing to hear someone talk about ideals, justice, compasson the contrast lwith Bush! is amazing. I'm a cyaic about politics but I have to light with myself to not be too hopeful

Accessibility

Clinton's appeal is first of all his focus "on the economy. stupid. Writes Dullion Camp. But he also has "made his party a refuge from bigotry, sexism and intolerance."

Malcolm McBryde, assex sace editor of The Bonner. the weekly publication of the Christian Reformed Church. agrees He says Chinton's or peal is that "he's user friendly By that he means that Clinton "has tried hard to make clear that he's accessible."

" I expect that transparency to continue in his presidency." continues McBryde, "so that will be the standard by which I'll judge him. He has inspired a lot of hope in people. This represents to the 'baby boom' generation an end to the resignation and cynicism about the Reagan-Bush years. We expect a lot, but we don't expect a whole lot more of him than we dimensional firms to be selled to the one of in And if he Enly, it's kind of a communal failure."

McBryde admits that among Christian Reformed people in western Michigan his positive view of Clinton is a minority one. Based on conversations wild objects alicin. Me Burde ally the recting about Chinon unoug such people "is negative, but not overwhelmingly acquire. They related to Bush: to them he stood for self-sukficiency, hard work, independence, lower taxes, and a strong foreign policy, strong in the sense of a strong mulitary."

Patent for special mouse criticized

C.C. stall

ECONDON: UPS - UPG granting of a patent for the "Harvard mouse," an animal genetically engineered to develop cancer, was contrary to morality and should be keyoked arendhumning muntal welfare groups and recently According to a report in The Christian Science Monitor the

CITALINATED A COMPANY AND A STREET Union for the Abolines of Vivisection and Compassion in World Farming, Representialives of the coalition ingue that inventions which he "containy to morality" break the European Patent Conven-HOD

Canadians step into the breach left by Chernobyl

B. of Witvoet with files from the Million Williams

Children bedien teemplogess of making a difference on

Children's Basplant No. 1 in

Koy, according to a story wateup to, he hadee Cowan and carabits for the Lagrant language difference to want and car-

The two medical workers,
Ruth Aone Nadeau from Albertand Trus Gembey from I ritish Columbia, enlisted with the Canadian government's Chemobyl Project to bring their expertise to an area in the world where technology is often not up to dote or where supplies are scarce. The Chemobyl Project to run by the University of Alberta.

Canadian needles are

The young patients enjoy

The young patients

The 1.200 patients at Children Hospital No. Trangs in age from one month to 24 years. The anspital deals with Millinesses though most children suttening from Tenkeman and other tomas of cancer are treated at Children's finaplial No. 14

Over at Children's Hospital
No. 14 the situation is not as good as it is in No. 1, Nadeau says. Although their laboratory has up-to-date technology donated under the suspices of Greenpeace International's The Children of Chernobyl, funding has run out. There are no chemicals, and the blood analysis equipment lies idle. The hospiful has also run out of other medical supplies, such as antibiotics and hypodermic needles.

TAKING THE HEAT OFF OHIP

This past year, the Ministry of Health took a long, hard look at our health care system to find ways of taking the heat off an already overburdened plan. It discovered that taxpayers were incorrectly paying for as much as $20 million for third-party services.

WHAT ARE THIRD-PARTY SERVICES?

Third-party services are those not required by a patient for treatment of illness or health promotion, but are requested by someone else.

These services include physical examinations for insurance forms, school and camp registrations, driver and pilot certifications and medical notes to give employees time off work.

Physicians are being reminded not to bill OHIP for thirdparty services. Instead, they will request direct payment for these services.

WHEN IT REALLY COUNTS

Services required to receive health or social assistance benefits remain insured. For example, medical certificates for wheelchairs or other medical devices provided through the Assistive Devices Program will be covered. There will be no charge for certificates for Northern Health Travel Grants or access to nursing homes.

Nothing that affects the basic principles of medicare has changed. You will not be asked to pay for direct medical care and some of the heat will be taken off OHIP.

For further information on how this may affect you call the Ministry of Health toll-free Infoline.

1-800-268-1154
IN TORONTO 314-5518
TDD 1-800-387-5559

Classifieds

Classified Rates

Montopolis Engagement Sagus
Raturamanut Sagus
Santramanut Sagus
Sa

advertisements. $13.50 per column sen Note: Mouthum tools $25.00 Letter under file number $35.00 Eduar Rhotes 128.00 adational sense ersary announcement sense ersary announce

ATTENTION

Land Complete since a leads to ex

fespuns the lot any errors due to handwetten or phoned-in advertise.

4) That code afrown above for classarticles covered any wright up to so reserves the right to charge for addihonal column inches at the rate of $13 50 per column inch (GST md) NEWLYWEDS & NEW PARENTS We offer a one-year subscription for only $20 00 (GST mid) to the couples whose wedding is an recorded in the Chastian Council and to the parents of the child whomas term announcement expenses injury sure to lacitate metters WAR GEROUPING PROSESS Manager of the Company and Company and

Births

E-THAN-JAMES

Birthdays

GROEN-VAN HOOIDONK:

Willing we anticure the 35th bithday itour McLiet, grandmethat and the 1800 and the

MRS ELIZABETH B GROEN VAN

We mank God for her tesumony of His love and care and for her continued good health Her grateful children:
Annie & the late Klaas Green
Paul & Ma Green

John & Nei Groen

Elimination Elimination

Management

32 grandefuldren and 70 graalbrandshedren,

Nor the post eight years, so Minhair his enjoyed the excellent tablished and lowing care given at the library Manor, 12 Bartlett Ave.

Grimsby, ON L3M-4N5

Anniversaries

Michigael Seguinaling Seguinaling 1953 (Dee VANDERLOO)

Ither the first synthesis was at many that the first synthesis with family and friends and we thank all, but especially our children, who made that such a beautiful evening. We are now celebrating our anniversary little the two of its. In the waster climate of Florida.

Flome address 10220 Sveen Lane, Beamswille CN LOR 183

Violentian Humber 1922 January 20 1923 RENDRIK and GLAGA HELDEN 1966 DE VIDIES)

The property of the second sec

There you Mon one bad for your love and guidance, and we hope to many more years bracking.

Mistro Agree - M. Riem No. emb

Anniversaries

Congratillations to Peterland Wilme de Vines (new Sletsma) on the occasion of their 40th wedding anniversary!

This up my eyes to the risk — where does my help come from? My help come from? My help sames from the Lord, the Maker of heaven and earth (Fa. 121. 1, 2). With Joy and thanking line our feathful God we appointed the 40th wadding applicants.

PETER and WILMA (WIETSKE) DEVAIES (nee SIETSMA)

We pray that God will continue to hold you in His loving care

Congratulations Mom and Dad

Shinopi and Grandman Williams

All the transfer of the continue to the continue to

Conton Share, Justin

Namen, Andrea William & Janet de York — 21

Home address 1503 2nd Ave.

Help Wanted

Melp needed for apring anason:

The property and selections are selected.

And Green Control Control Control Control Control

Daycare

Smithwith Ont.

1953 Feering III 1993
With Joy and grastude to God, was leak forward to calebrating the 46th woulding remained to calebrating the 46th and cronuparents.

SLOTMAN (nee JANSEN)

We pray that God will continue to bless you both with good health and happiness

Honnie & Gemit Grootens — Ommen the Neth.

Power & Martinion Gambildae, Shirt Shirt Cambildae, Shirt Sh

Keyn Mereom, Jonah Botty & Albantikov nah — Frodunction N.O.

Barrata & Tim Robinin — Smillivida Oni

Francis and mintres are myters to an open house. Sequency, Feb. 13, 1996, from 2-5 p.m. in the Smith-Ville Cor. Fiet Church.

Home account the White St. Emilia

For Sale

Dwner wishing to refire

Obituaries

Friedlight Port Dover

After many contilly named both in Malland and in Jamese The Lord took to his hear, enly home

WILFRED (WIEBE) BOOTSMA

on Sunday, Jan 10, 1993, at the age of 80 years. Balaved hushand for 55 years of Tarena (Teta) Bootama (Wharama) Belowid father of Harry & Paula Booksma - Brankford Pat & Dick Montert - Newcastia Jack & AnkjerBooksma - Port Sover Bill & Gartie Bootenta - Forest Shirtey & Och Flaumonda - Janes Studies & Justice Booksena — Angantur Williad Bostoma Jr. — Braniford Jessy Spotume - Toranto Wendy & Rick Variant - Calegral Dear Pake to 46 grandchildren und 16 great-grandchildren. Alan sun wived by two sistars, Johnnin (Mrs. Jim Faberi of Townsend and Jalya Mrs John deYoung) of Stoney Greek and three sisters and one sisther in the Neth Praceceased by terminated children, one granddaughter and two sisters. The Juneral took place on Wednesday. Jan. 13, 1993 at Ebernaum Chr. Fail Church, Janvia Ont. With Rev. Floraer Praisinama athumning Paaim 32.

Correspondence address RR 81, Port Dover, ON NOA 1N1

The Lord took unto Himself Our mother grandmother and great grandmoster on Jan 10, 1993, after she had suffered many years with Alzheimer's disease.

(Dee GREIDANUS)

She was 01 years of age and prodemanded by our father (Sept. 1966) and our sener (May 1938) We are thankful to the Lorg for

We are thankful to the Long for giving un formful and sowing parants.
And are now in the glory.

Green Lane Beemsville, CN LOR 183

Teachers

And the comment of th

Classifieds

Obituaries

Sept. 23, 1906

Jan. 16, 1993

I am coming soon, hold on to what you have, so that no one will take your crown' (Rev. 3; 11).

On Saturday, Jan. 16, 1993, at the Holland Chr. Homes, Brampton, Ont.

JANNETJE HEEMSKERK (NIEUWENHUIZEN)

went to her heavenly home.
Beloved wife of the late Jacob
Heemskerk (1963).
Dearly loved mother of:
Bill & Henrietta Heemskerk —

Riverview, Mich. George & Susan Heemskerk —

Beeton, Ont. Nelly & John Drost -- Niagara Falls,

Beloved Oma to 13 grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren.

Predeceased by two grandsons in 1966 and 1982.

Funeral services were held in Trenton, Ont.

Correspondence address: G. Heemskerk, 2 McPherson Crt., Beeton, ON LOG 1M0

At his appointed time, the Lord called home his child, our son-in-law, brother-in-law and uncle,

HENRY PETER UFKES

Beloved husband of Marilyn Straatsma-Ufkes. Father of:

Monique and Peter Daniel.
"You will rest, and then at

"You will rest, and then at the end of the days, you will rise to receive your aliotted inheritance" (Dan. 12:13). Yde & Murkje Damstra-Straatsma Andrew & Colette Tellier-Straatsma Kyle, Cameron

John & Joanne Pires-Straatsma Jodan, Jarnn, Josun Sonya Straatsma Ron & Pamela Schuld-Straatsma Correspondence address:

Ron & Pamela Schuld-Straatsma
Correspondence address: 14
Chestnut Ave., Brampton, ON L6X
2A5

Amhem, Brampton,
Nov. 7, 1952 Jan. 11, 1993
Suddenly, after a short illness, the Lord took away my son,

HENRY WITTENBERG

Husband of Sonia Wittenberg-Kosurko — Brampton Father of Christopher and Stephanie — Brampton Brother of Glenn — Richmond Hill Son of Henk Wittenberg — Willowdale

Alison Wittenberg-Brathwaite
Predeceased by:
His mother, Willy in 1987
His brother, Edward in 1955
His brother, Dwight in 1960
We are comforted by our heavenly Father who, we believe, has let him into Jesus' kingdom.
Burial took place on Friday, Jan. 15.

1993, in Brampton Peel Memorial Gardens.

Willowdale, Jan. 18, 1993.

Teachers

Agassiz, B.C.: Agassiz Chr. School.

The position for principal in a growing rural Christian school of 106 enrolment is open, starting the 1993/94 school year. Applicants must be committed Christians with goal setting and vision skills. Administrative duties will be 40 percent; and classroom duties 60 percent.

Closing date for the position is Jan. 31, 1993. Forward all applications to:

Agassiz Christian School, Box 3230, Agassiz, BC VOM 1A0

Attn.: Education Committee

Bowmanville, Ont.: Knox Chr. School has a definite opening for a Grade 3 teacher for the 1993/94 school year. Interested, qualified applicants for this position as well as possible openings at other grade levels are invited to apply. If you would like to join our team of dedicated Christian teachers at a dynamic, growing school (present enrolment: 225) in a modern, up-to-date facility, please forward your letter of application and resume to:

Bill Helmus, Principal Knox Chr. School 410 Scugog St., R.R. #1 Bowmanville, ON L1C 3K2 Phone: (416) 623-5871.

Smithers, B.C.: Bulkley Valley Chr. School (K-12, 300 students on 2 campuses) has, for Sept. 1993, a full-time position in French 4-12. Please address enquiries/resumes to the principal, Mr. Evert Vroon, c/o B.V. Christian School, P.O. Box 3635, Smithers, BC VOJ 2NO

Smithville, Ont.: Covenant Chr. School will have a teaching position available for Grade 2, beginning Feb. 1, 1993.

Send your letter of application, ref-

Mr. B. Van Hoffen Covenant Christian School 6470 Regional Road 14 Smithville, ON LOR 2A0

Phone: (416) 957-7796

erences and resume to:

Surrey, B.C.: Fraser Valley Christian High School is an interdenominational school in the reformed tradition serving families and students in the lower Fraser Valley. Due to changing staff and increasing enrolment, we are looking for a music teacher, an art teacher, a math/computer studies teacher and a teacher with interests in one or more of the humanities.

Applicants should send resumes to:

Al Boerema, Principal Fraser Valley Christian High School 15353 - 92 Avenue Surrey, BC V3R 1C3 Phone: (604) 581-1033

For Sale

Beautiful 14' x 70' furnished mobile home on irrigated landscaped lot. 2 bdms., 2 baths, island kitchen, 2/2 screened porch, carport, shed, adult park in Central Florida, $28,000.

Call (519) 456-3970, or direct to owner (813) 635-3086

Personal

Christian lady, widow, 68 years old, wishes to correspond with Christian gentleman, 65-75 years old. Please reply to: File #2601 c/o Christian Courier, 4-261 Martindale Rd., St. Catherines, ON L2W 1A1

Puzzle will return in next week's issue

RELAX AND LET THE CLASSIFIEDS DO IT ALL FOR YOU!

Christian Courier
4-261 Martindale Rd.,
St. Catharines, ON L2W 1A1.
Phone: (416) 682-8311
FAX: (416) 682-8313

Miscellaneous

Teachers

Edmonton Christian Schools

EMPLOYMENTOPPORTUNITIES

Teachers:

Applications are invited from interested individuals for teaching positions with the Edmonton Christian Schools. The Edmonton Christian School system is a progressive school system operating three elementary junior high schools and one senior high school. Applications are being accepted for all positions. The Edmonton Christian Schools provide a good salary and benefit package with ample opportunity for professional development, growth and advancement. Openings are anticipated in elementary, junior high and high school

Send applications to:

Ms. Tena Siebenga

East Edmonton Christian School

11515-36 Street

Edmonton, AB T5W 2A9

Phone: (403) 479-4171, Fax: (403) 478-1728

Smithville Covenant Christian School will have an opening for starting the 1993/94 school year. This position consists of 45% administrative time and 55% teaching time.

Principal

Smithville is a small community located in the Niagara Peninsula. Next door to Covenant Christian School is a Christian high school. Smithville is a 35-minute drive away from Redeemer College, Ancaster.

Covenant Christian School is currently in its fifth year of operation. Our program consists of Kindergarten to Grade 8 in new facilities, including a recent addition of a gymnasium, 'Kindergarten, library and music room.

At present we have 161 students with a staff of 4 full-time and 6 part-time teachers.

If you are interested in this position please direct inquiries to:

Chairman of the Board
Covenant Christian School
6470 Reg. Rd. #14
Smithville, ON LOR 2A0
(phone inquiries: Nancy Vandenberg, (416) 957-7557)

Student Financial Aid

Classis Niagara invites all those who plan to study for the purpose of pursuing full-time ministry in the Christian Reformed Church, to apply for financial assistance by March 15, 1993.

Please contact Rev. E. Groot-Nibbelink at (416) 937-3534 or (416) 935-3055.

Miscellaneous

Teachers

Teachers

For Sale

Kerkdiensten op cassette in de Nederlandse taal

- Il kunt zich nu abonneren op deze prekendicast, b.v.
- a) één cassette jedere week;
- b) twee cassettes maandelijks;
- c) één cassette maandehijks.

Prijs $3.00 per cassette

($1.50 extra als u de cassette will bonden)

Voor inlichtingen schrijf naar: Jack & Lenie Brouwer 27 Alpaca Drive Scarborough, ON M11 278 of bel (416) 289-0706

Luister naar het programma ZINGEND GELOVEN

Elke Zaterdag, 8 uur 's morgens

CHIN FM 101

Timothy Christian School has a definite

Principal

opening for the 1993-94 school year.

Our school of 130 students and nine staff was established in 1958 and is situated in a northwest suburb of Metropolitan Toronto known as Rexdale. If you are interested in leading a dedicated staff and being supported by a committed Christian school community, we invite you to apply for this position. We look forward to assisting you to use your talents and gifts in our school to help prepare God's children for service in His kingdom. Please send resumes or direct enquiries to:

> William Groot (416-743-2554 - evenings) Principal Search Committee Timothy Christian School 28 Elmhurst Drive Rexdale ON M9W 2J5

ADDRESS CHANGE

Pleaseusethis form and allow four weeks for processing request.

> Attachyour present label_ here.

Please indicate whennew address takes effect.

Effective:

Name:

New Address:

Code:

mail to: Christian Courier 4-261 Martindale Rd. St. Catharines, ON L2W 1A1

MISSISSAUGA, ONTARIO JOHN KNOX CHRISTIAN SCHOOL

An interdenominational, Christian elementary school, with 235 students, 17 full- and part-time staff, located on Lake Ontario, immediately west of Toronto, requires two full-time teachers commencing September 1993 as a result of the retirement of two current staff members for maternity reasons:

> 1 KINDERGARTEN TEACHER, 2 days JK., 3 days SK. 1 VICE-PRINCIPAL / TEACHER -(possibly primary)

If you are interested in applying, please forward your letter of application and curriculum vitae to:

> Mrs. Lorna Keith, Principal John Knox Christian School P.O. Box 54, Clarkson P.O. Mississauga, ON L5J 3X9

Moving? Need a mortgage? Concerned about higher rates in the future?

CSS has money available for mortgage investments and seeks secure, long term, stable income. CSS is offering mortgage rates in line with those of the major financial institutions, and especially longer term rates, such as:

5 yr., 9.25% (or as the market dictates at the time of application or purchase)

8 yr., 1/4% higher than the 5 yr. rate 10 yr. 3/4% higher than the 5 yr. rate 15 yr., 1% higher than the 5 yr, rate

Write: Christian Stewardship Services #210-455 Spadina Ave. Toronto, ON M58 2G8 (416) 598-2181

FOR SALE

Due to the fact that our office has switched to desk top publishing, several pieces of equipment have become surplus to our needs. For years they faithfully assisted us in producing Calvinist Contact and we've sort of become attached to them. But we will let them go for the best price, on a first-come first-serve basis. They are:

One Compugraphic Compuwriter IV: in excellent condition. The following fonts are included:

Souvenir Carmine Tango English Times Musketeer Tiffany

Avant Garde Basilica Congress Oracle

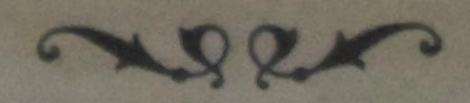

Hebrastyle Engravure Revue Goudy

Two Kodak S II Phototypesetting Processors. One of them is as good as new!

Helios

Interested? Then, please hurry! Contact:

Stan de Jong Calvinist Contact Publishing Ltd. 4-261 Martindale Rd. St. Catharines, ON L2W 1A1 Phone: (416) 682-8311 Fax: (416) 682-8313

TOTAL CHURCH FURNISHINGS

CHAIRS INSTEAD OF PEWS

Book racks for some models Communion Tables . Lectems Pulpits . Room Dividers Folding & Stacking Tables Peter Keppie Sales Ltd. 57 Charles Tupper Drive West Hill, ON M1C 2A8 TOLL FREE: 1-800-565-9701 Fax: 1-416-284-5260 COAST TO COAST SALES SINCE 1973

Miscellaneous

Real Estate

Hollands of Engels Benchmark

200-32500 South Fraser Way, Abbotsford, BC V2T 4W1

Bus: 853-7144 Fax: 853-1839 Toll Free: 522-0919

Res: 854-1560 "Serving the Fraser Valley"

Classifieds / Events

Miscellaneous

Miscellaneous

Miscellaneous

Nelson Insurance Brokers Ltd.

JOHN VAN WIJNGAARDEN - MARTHA BUNKER -RALPH TOERING

auto-fire-liability-bonds-casualty-life-mercantile

453 Plains Road West, Burlington, Ontario L7T 1H1 Telephone: 526-8790 Hamilton

Now Offering

RRSP 6.5% appr. Regular funds 6.25%

Your funds will be invested in Christian Reformed Church and Christian School building projects in Canada.

Call: (416) 461-1207 evenings or Write: Christian Reformed Church Extension Fund 45 Harriet St., Toronto, ON M4L 2G1

THE SOCIETY FOR CHRISTIAN EDUCATION

SOUTHERN ALBERTA

Phone: (403) 328-4783 Fax: (403) 328-4082

- Operating -

Immanuel Christian School Taber Christian School Enrolment 730 students

Invites applications for the position of

BUSINESS ADMINISTRATOR

due to the retirement of our present Administrator after twenty-three (23) years of service. The person we are looking for will be responsible for all the non-academic operations of our Society. such as:

- The accounting office, payroll, budgets, financial statements, accounts receivable, accounts payable, etc.
- Supervise a fleet of fourteen (14) school buses.
- Supervise the maintenance and janitorial program.

- Ordering of supplies.

This person will report directly to the Society Board. He/She must have the ability to share ideas and work with the educational administrators, as we view our administrative group as a team. The successful applicant should have a good understanding of Christian Education from a Reformed perspective. A full-time administrative assistant is already in place.

 Salary commensurate with training and experience **

PLEASE SEND APPLICATION AND RESUME TO:

Society for Christian Education in Southern Alberta ATTENTION: M.D. Visser, Business Administrator 802-6th Avenue North Lethbridge, AB TIH 0S1

Your tax sheltered nest egg . . . our campus financing

1992 and 1993 R.R.S.P contributions and transfers of existing accounts are welcome.

Arrangements are simple: Just write or call Redeemer College we will do the rest.

Registered Retirement Savings Plan

Redeemer College

A Christian University College Ancaster, Ontario L9G3N6

(416) 648-2131 or 1-800-263-6467

Student Financial Aid

The Student Fund Committee of Classis Huron of the Christian Reformed Church invites applications for Student Financial Aid in preparation for the ordained ministry in the Christian Reformed Church. Applications must be in before March 15, 1993. Contact:

> Rev. Nathan Elgersma 42 Pentetangore Row Kincardine, ON N2Z 2N5

JANUARY 1993

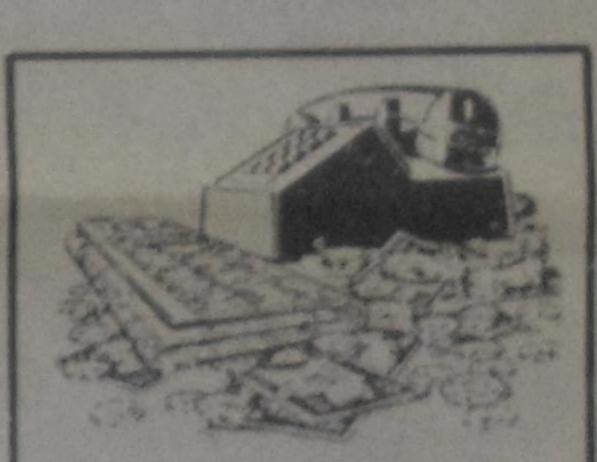

THE CONSULATE-GENERAL WOULD LIKE TO GET IN TOUCH WITH THE FOLLOWING INDIVIDUALS

BOS. D.J.R., born Sept. 17, 1961, immigrated to Canada on Sept. 4, 1987.

January 26, 1919 in Hogeveen, immigrated to Canada April 14, 1951, married to Klass Kamstra July 31, 1952, last known address in Canada; South Gillies, P.O. Ontario.

PIETERSE, W.J., born March 8, 1927, immigrated to Canada April 5, 1962, last known address in Canada: Royal Drive 1272, Peterborough, Ostario.

CONSULATE GENERAL OF THE NETHERLANDS DUNDAS ST. WEST. SUITE # 2106, BOX 2 TORONTO, ONTARIO M5G 123 PHONE: (416) 598-2520 FAX: (416) 598-8064

Save money by using the classifieds!

Calendar

Help Wanted

Jan. 29 The King's College Performing Arts presents "Serenade," an evening of chamber music and instrumental ensembles. With Charles Stolte (saxophone), Joachim Segger (piano), the Garneau String Quartet, and the KC Chamber Choir. At 8 p.m., West End CRC, Edmonton, Alta.

- Jan. 29 "King's View Friday." Be a university student for a day at The King's College. Edmonton, Alta. Tour our new campus facility. To register, phone (403) 428-0727.
- Jan. 31 Dutch worship service, led by Rev. Lammert Slofstra. 3 p.m., CRC, Ancaster, Out.
- Feb. 1-5 'Mission Emphasis Week' at Redeemer College, Ancaster, Out. Various mission organizations will be setting up displays highlighting their programs 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.
- Feb. 3-4 "Human Rights & Canadian Society," a conference on interdisciplinary issues. Keynote speaker: Dr. Paul Marshall. At The King's College, Edmonton, Alta. Info.: (403) 428-0727. Event is free of charge.
- Feb. 5 Organ/Trumpet recital by organist Christiaan Teeuwsen and trumpeter Stuart Laughton. At 8 p.m., Redeemer College 648-2131.
- Feb. 6 Organ concert by Andre Knevel with audience participation, 8 p.m., Maranatha CRC, Bowmanville, Out.
- Feb. 12 Inauguration of Dr. Juse van der Meer as professor of biology, 8 p.m., Redeemer College, Ancaster, Ont. Reception follows.

- Feb. 13 "Valentine Dessert Social," featuring master story-teller Hugh Cook, with musical renditions by "Collegium Musicium" (dir. G. Hockstra), 7:30 p.m., Jubilee Fellowship CRC, St. Catharines, Ont.
- Feb. 13-1450th Anniversary celebrations of the Holland Marsh District Christian School. Feb. 13, 2 p.m., celebrative program. Feb. 14, 3 p.m., thanksgiving service. Both events at CRC, Holland Marsh, Oat,
- Feb. 20 "The King's Guild Family Fair." from 10 a.m. 2 p.m., at The King's College, Edmonton, Alta. Bakers, craftspeople and other entrepreneurs will exhibit their wares. Lunch available. Call Grace (403) 474-7407 or Roely (403) 477-8564 for table rentals ($10).
- Feb. 26-27 "You're a good man, Charlie Brown," will be performed at 8 p.m. by students of London District Chr. Secondary School, London, Out.
- Feb. 28 A Redeemer College home-coming concert for the choir Conductor Christiaan Teeuwsen. At 8 p.m. First CRC. Hamilton, Out Freewill offering
- Auditorium, Ancaster, Ont. For tickets, phone (416) Mar. 5-6 "You're a good man. Charlie Brown." will be performed at 8 p.m. by students of London District Chr. Secondary School, London, Ont.
 - Mar. 12-13 Woodstock Dutch Theatre Group presents "Kontakt met Kootje," a comedy in three acts, 8 p.m., W.C.L. auditorium, Woodstock, Ont. Tickets/info. (519) 462-2866.

News

Bible study in OACS schools near earning credit?

Bert Witvoet

St. CATHARINES, Ont. —
The Ontario Alliance of Christian Schools (OACS) and the Ontario Ministry of Education may be close to an out-of-court agreement on the question of Ministry credits for religion courses taught in OACS high schools, reports OACS director Adrian Guldemond.

"We are currently negotiating an agreement which, if it is completed within two weeks, will give us most of what we want. If it is not completed by that time, we will have to proceed with our court challenge."

Guldemond says.

He is hopeful that either route will give OACS schools what they are looking for. He interprets the Ministry's willingness to negotiate as a sign that Ontario's cabinet, which has discussed the matter in recent months, anticipates that the court challenge will succeed.

Principals take stand

The OACS is a co-applicant with Christian high school principals Peter Van Huizen, Marc Stroobosscher and James Vander Kooy, and former Beacon Christian High School student Nicole Van Huizen (St. Catharines, Ont.) in a case against the Ontario's Ministry of Education and Attorney General.

The court case resulted from an action by government inspectors that denied Christian school students a credit for Bible courses, something students in Roman Catholic schools get as a matter of course.

Christian school principals in Ontario started to take matters into their own hands in 1989 when they decided to enter all Bible courses as NRE credits on secondary school certificates. "All university computers are set up to interpret such a code as a recognized study of religion," says Van Huizen.

No certificate signing

Ontario were told by the Education Ministry that Bible courses could not be given certificate status. When inspectors came to the schools and saw that principals had entered Bible courses as credits anyway, they took away the principals' right to sign certificates, and crossed out the Bible courses, referring to them as non-credit courses.

The court action, which is to come before the Ontario Court of Justice by April, was initiated in response to the inspectors' action. Nicole Van Huizen was included in the action because she was a Grade 12 student whose Bible credits had been removed. Nicole is now a first-year student at Redeemer College in Ancaster, Ont.

"She did not need the two en, who is Nicole's father and was her principal as well. "But that's not the point we want to

Photo courtesy Peter Van Huizen

Nicole Van Huizen - denied two credits at graduation.

make. Why should the study of Bible not receive credit?"

Peter Van Huizen says he is surprised at the possibility that the matter will be resolved out of court. Though he pushed the confrontation out of conviction that "it needed to be done," he was never confident of victory.

Strangely quiet

He has noticed, however, that "this year's inspector was strangely quiet and changed the subject" any time Van Huizen wanted to discuss Bible credits. So far Van Huizen has received no indication from the inspector that he may not sign the certificates for 1993.

There are a few sticking points before the agreement can be signed, Guldemond indicates, but he is not willing to discuss them during this time of negotiation. He does ackowledge that inspection of Bible courses is one of them.

Not against inspection

Both he and Van Huizen told Christian Courier that they are not against the idea of some form of state supervision.

"We want to acknowledge that the state has a role to play, also in the teaching of Bible," says Van Huizen. "We must demonstrate that there is an academic challenge, that significant knowledge is being taught which is appropriate to the level of the student, and that students are gaining important new skills."

He admits that the state has a right to make sure that no hatred is being promoted in the name of religion. "But what is hatred against other religions?" he asks. "If we say that Jesus Christ is the only way to God, will that be seen as hatred and intolerance?"

Van Huizen makes it clear that Christian schools will continue to make such claims and that the Ministry will not be allowed to dictate course outlines and content for the study of Bible in Christian schools.

Teaching Bible in separate and public schools

(See related story next to this.)
Bert Witvoet

ST. CATHARINES, Ont.

— Separate schools are not threatened when it comes to inspection of two accredited religion courses, says Maurice Prindiville, vice-principal of Denis Morris [Catholic] Secondary School in St. Catharines.

The standards and content for those courses are determined by local, separate school boards, which are Catholic.

Schools may use course outlines and curriculum material developed by the Institute for Catholic Education, an agency made up of bishops and board members, but it is up to local schools and boards to make the final decisions, says Prindiville." The principle of local autonomy is fairly well established after a number of court cases."

Courses other than the two accredited religion courses, such as family studies, world religions and sociology, are more rigidly determined by Ministry guidelines, he says, but allow for the expression of the Catholic perspective.

Christianity within the public system

Eden in Niagara-on-the-Lake (formerly Eden Christian College, a Mennonite school now run by the public school board), may or may not be affected by the OACS challenge, says vice-principal Keith Vrieswijk.

He points out that Eden currently offers a Grade 9
Bible course outside regular school hours. He wonders if the Ministry's plan to drop the credit system in Grade 9 will allow for the offering of religious instruction within the curriculum.

Under Ministry guidelines
Eden also offers "values education" in Grades 9 and 10, and a Grade 12 world religion course. Also outside the curriculum, Eden offers chapel, Bible study clubs, concerts and other community events that allow for the exercise of the Christian faith, says Vrieswyk.

Barracks in Ukraine could become Calvinist Bible college

Bill Fledderus

BEREGOVO, Ukraine—
The Balashare military camp, a group of five old buildings on 12 acres of land near the Ukrainian border with Hungary, has caught the interest of Christ for Russia, an American group dedicated to establishing seminaries in the former Soviet Union.

Christ for Russia intends to develop Balashare into a Calvinist Bible college and, eventually, into a seminary, says Rev. Nick Vogelzang, the organization's executive director.

The existing facilities, some of which date from 1817, include four rooms of iron bunks, four meeting rooms, a kitchen and some outbuildings and garages. The entire complex rents for about $500 a year. If the acquisition is successful, Christ for Russia would like to construct a new building and establish a library on the site.

Staffed by pastors, volunteers

The school would be staffed by local pastors and short-term volunteers from the Netherlands, United States and Canada, says Vogelzang. Local contacts have promised that at least 40 students would enrol in such an enterprise.

Vogelzang and Dr. Gary
Warmink, a member of the advisory board of Christ for Russia from Austin, Texas, visited Balashare in October. They recommended the purchase and deposited $1,000 with Dr. Jos Colijn, a Dutch seminary professor in the Hungarian city of Debrecen. Colijn will look into the legal aspects of the purchase. (There appears to be some uncertainty about the present ownership.)

Vogelzang and Warmink signed an agreement with several Ukrainian pastors, including Bishop Forgon Pal, in which both the Americans and Ukrainians promised to cooperate in the seminary venture and offer each other "mutual assistance." ("In Hungarian," explains Vogelzang, "the last name is always mentioned first.

'Pal' is his given name, the equivalent of our name
'Paul.'")

The Americans also delivered 27 kg ("about 55 pounds") of donated pharmaceuticals to one of the pastors' sons, a doctor in a hospital in nearby Vinogrado.

Christ for Russia is currently awaiting the return of board member Jack Anderson, who is travelling the Ukraine and making contacts with other Reformed churches there, adds Vogelzang. In the U.S., the organization continues to translate and print copies of various Reformed creeds in Russian and Ukrainian.